STRATOSPHERE BALLOONISTS KILLED

Roosevelt Prepares For Prompt Devaluing Of Dollar

RUSSIANS LOSE LIVES TRYING TO LAND SHIP

All Three Members of Soviet Craft Which Soared to Reported Altitude of 67,585 Feet Found Dead in Gondola After Crash — Scientific Instruments Destroyed.

MOSCOW, Jan. 31—(AP)—All three members of the crew of the soviet stratosphere balloon "Osoaviakhim" were killed between 3:30 p. m., and 5 p. m., yesterday, several hundred kilometers southeast of Moscow, near the village of Potiskyostrog.

The disaster was announced officially today by the soviet civil authorities after 24 hours of unconfirmed reports and rumors while a search went on for the fliers who yesterday reported they had reached an altitude of 67 585 feet

The official announcement said the crew was killed while attempting to land the great balloon

The balloon bag broke away from the gondola as it hit the ground in a hard landing The force of the concussion killed the three occupants of the gondola and destroyed all the scientific nstruments aboard

Bag Tears Lose.

Following the crash the bag tore loose from the gondola and disappeared into the clouds

The official confirmation of the catastrophe came in an announcement to the Seventeenth all union congress of the communist party and was made public by the foreign office three hours later

Eyewitnesses reported hearing two explosions when the gondola hit the ground, indicating the balloon must have landed with terrific force

The bodies of all three were found in the shattered gondola. One of the bodies was described in the official announcement as mutilated beyond recognition

A special commission was dispatched from the capital to investigate the disaster

Immediately upon receiving the announcement, the communist congress rose in a silent tribute to the flight victims and passed a resolution that they be buried in

ACTION IS TAKEN FOR HIGHER PAY

Senate Group Votes to Restore Two-Thirds of U. S. Wage Cut.

WASHINGTON, Jan 31—(AP)—The senate appropriations subcommittee considering the independent offices bill today voted to restore one-third of the 15 per cent federal pay cut effective February 1, and another third next July.

The controversial veterans' question was expected to be decided later in the day.

Under the bill as passed by the house, federal workers would have been given only 5 per cent of their cut back effective July 1.

The full senate committee has yet to act, then the senate and then the house again before final approval is possible

The subcommittee also voted to suspend the 'freezing' of pay in the six services—army, navy, marine corps public health, coast and geodetic survey and coast guard—the effect of which would be that members of these groups would get increased pay by reason of length of service placing them into new pay periods

BAIR PROPOSES TWO CHANGES IN LINCOLN CHARTER

Would Bar Defeated City Council Candidates From Appointments.

City Commissioner E M Bair Wednesday announced he is willing to sponsor submission of two city charter amendments to the voters of Lincoln at either the primary or general elections this fall He said he would wait until certain legal problems connected with the proposals are ironed out before he decides to actively promote the referenda

Bair's proposals are

1. Make it impossible for a defeated city primary candidate to be appointed to some high municipal office during the ensuing term.

2. Make council committees instead of individual commissioners responsible for the administration of the various city departments.

"I am ready to sponsor the changes," Bair declared, "because I believe they will correct what, in my opinion, are the two greatest objections to our present governmental setup"

Prevent Political Tieups.

The merit in the first proposal, Bair declares, rests in the fact that it will prevent tieups between a

Who Walloped Margaret Sullavan? Movie Star Wears Black Eye When Plane Stops Here, Refuses To Talk

Did some ungallant gentleman wallop Margaret Sullavan?

The movie star who was recently wed in Lincoln to Only Yesterday's was aboard a United Air Lines plane that stopped for a few minutes at Lincoln airport Wednesday morning but she wouldn't tell. A black eye however discolored her far-advertised face

Miss Sullavan, whose screen role made her fair and returns furnished reporters questions and interviews She pretended to read a book but it was upside down

Unknown To Passengers.

Fellow passengers on the airship did not know the reason until a reporter got the information They said she had kept quiet to spend the whole journey

As soon as the plane landed, the warning that was up that she was temperamental She refused to get off the plane, so the press representatives got aboard but Miss Sullavan wouldn't talk "I haven't anything to say" she snapped out when asked where she was going A fellow passenger solto voiced She's headed for New York

Miss Sullavan is there any truth to the rumor that you have married Jed Harris?" The only answer was a coy little gesture with her hand and an exclamation of annoyance

No Answers.

"Are you going to New York to appear in a play or do a picture?" The same answer came as before.

She's petit, blonde and speaks in a low modulated voice One would never recognize her on the street after seeing her in pictures. There was a readily apparent air of uneasiness about her that shaded into the mysterious And to add to the mystery, the black eye

United Air Lines record show she boarded the plane at Los Angeles.

ENO BROTHERS ARE TAKEN TO KANSAS PRISON

Suspected In Two Otoe County Bank Robberies.

ARE CAPTURED BY OKLAHOMA POLICE

Sought In Connection With Plot to Kidnap Governor's Daughter.

LANSING, Kas., Jan 31— (AP) — Major Wint Smith, head of the Kansas highway patrol, said today that Clarence and Otis Eno, and a a man known as Jim White were wanted in connection with a plot to kidnap Gov Alf M Landon's daughter last fall The three were brought to the state prison here this morning from Tulsa, Okla., where they were taken in a raid on a house last night

The residence of Gov Landon at Topeka was placed under heavy guard Sept 21, 1933, after a tip from underworld sources of a plan to kidnap Peggy Anne, the governor's sixteen-year-old daughter. The ransom, according to a report at the time, was to be the release of six convicts from the state prison

Officials at Wellington, Kas. said the trio had been identified as participants in the holdup last Thursday of the First National bank here.

Sought For Many Holdups.

The Eno brothers are wanted also in connection with bank robberies at Baxter Springs, Kas., Poteau, Okla., and several holdups in Nebraska.

In the raid on a house in Tulsa five women, including Mary Eno, mother of Clarence and Otis, were arrested and held in the Tulsa jail.

The other women arrested were Hazel Wind, Gypsy Bradshaw Eno, wife of Otis, Dorothy Campbell, wife of G. L. Campbell, in whose name the house was occupied, and Elsie Hedrick, sister of Mrs. Campbell

It was understood here the men will be held in the prison for the

Bank Clearings Gain $1,300,000 Here In January

Evidence of increasing business activity in Lincoln is shown in a million and a quarter increase in bank clearings in Lincoln this month over January a year ago, according to B. G. Clark, secretary of the Lincoln Clearing House association.

Clark reported clearings for January, 1934, totalled $7,945,222.17 and for January, 1933, $6,626,577.78.

TOUHY'S KIDNAP TRIAL NEAR END

Priest Claims Gang Leader Is Innocent Of Abducting Factor.

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, Chicago, Jan. 31—(AP)—The defense today rested its case in the trial of Roger Touhy and two others, charged with the kidnaping of John Factor, after putting on half a dozen witnesses to combat the state's accusations.

Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley announced the state would offer no rebuttal.

The defense had offered less than three hours of testimony. For his three principal witnesses, Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart introduced Father Joseph L Weber, a 70-year-old Indianapolis priest, Dr Samuel Wolf, an eye specialist, and Miss Emily Ivens, an "alibi" witness for Roger Touhy.

Neither Touhy nor the two other defendants—Albert Kator and Gustav Schaefer—took the witness stand

Closing arguments began at 2 p. m.

Claims Touhy Innocent.

Father Weber testified he had contacted Touhy to seek Factor's release and said he was convinced of Touhy's innocence

Called into the case by Factor's family, Father Weber said he visited Touhy's home, where Touhy told him "Before God, Father I had nothing to do with it"

To contradict Factor's testimony that he recognized Touhy as one of his kidnapers during an instant when the captors raised Factor's blindfold, the defense introduced Dr. Wolf, who said a man who had been blindfolded for several days would be unable to see clearly for four or five minutes

Miss Ivens, testified Touhy spent most of the night of June 30 at home Factor was kidnaped the morning of July 1.

32-Hile An Hour Wind

A stiff wind blew through Lincoln's streets Wednesday afternoon, reaching a velocity of 32 miles an hour at 1 30 o'clock There was no indication however, that the wind will usher in a storm the weather bureau reported A minimum of 25 degrees above zero is expected here Wednesday night. The reading at 1 o'clock in the afternoon was 33 degrees above.

HINES IS RAPPED BY LEGION CHIEF

GENERAL HINES.

BROOKLYN, Jan 31—(AP)—The major objective of the American Legion at this session of congress, National Commander Edward A. Hayes said today, is to seek restoration of benefits taken away from disabled veterans under the economy act

"We cannot turn our backs on the disabled," he said, 'despite misleading statements by the $15,000-a-year director of the National Economy league, and by Gen Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs"

Hines' estimate was erroneous, he declared, and "unfair" because it projected the estimate over a five-year period.

The total estimate of Hines was $603,000,000 The legion estimate of the cost of the rehabilitation program, Hayes said, was not to exceed $80,000,000

JOHN DILLINGER ADMITS SEVERAL BANK ROBBERIES

Desperado Guarded In Indiana Jail; Denies Killing Officer.

Drops Fighting Attitude and Freely Talks to Prosecutor.

CROWN POINT Ind. Jan 31—(AP)—John Dillinger, the swashbuckling Indiana bad man, tamed by Arizona peace officers, was behind steel bars in the county jail here today, apparently resigned to his fate—a fate which the state hopes will be his execution for killing a policeman.

At the jail, of which Mrs Lillian Holley the sheriff, is in charge, extra precautions were taken in view of reports that Dillinger's gangster friends might try to free him Deputies even stationed themselves atop the jail.

There, while the state made preliminary plans to try him for the slaying of Policeman Patrick O Malley during a recent $20.000 bank robbery at East Chicago, Ind., the gang leader began to talk confessing Prosecutor Robert G. Estill said, to robberies totaling over $250 000. He denied, however, he had slain Policeman O'Malley.

Convinced He Is to Die.

"Dillinger," said the prosecutor, "is convinced he's going to burn, so he's talking He admitted bank robberies at Racine, Wis., St. Mary's O. and Greencastle Ind., and said that it was his boys who liberated him from the Lima, O., jail."

It was during the Lima jail delivery that Sheriff Jess Sarber was shot to death.

All fight out of him, Dillinger talked agreably with newspaper men and told them he had learned in St. Louis before he went to Arizona that John Hamilton, one of his henchmen, had been slain, but the authorities discounted the story.

Tells of Money.

Hamilton, one of the Indiana convicts who made a sensational escape from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City last fall, is wanted in Chicago for slaying a policeman and officials said they believed that Dillinger was attempting to "cover up" for his pal

Dillinger said that a 'buddy' of Hamilton's had told him of Hamilton's death, and had given him $7 000 to deliver to Hamilton's children, adding that this money was part of that taken from him at Tucson, where he and a group of his followers were arrested last Thursday.

Indicated Insanity May Be Defense Murder Charges.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan 31—(AP)—LaClede Stevens 37 year old bakery proprietor, today pleaded not guilty to two first degree murder charges resulting from the slaying of his wife, Frances and his father-in-law, John DeRolf 56, city water commissioner, Jan 19

His hearing was set for 10 a m tomorrow He underwent an examination by doctors employed by his attorneys following the court hearing, indicating an insanity plea may be made.

JAPAN PLANS TO EXCEED U. S. NAVY BY 1936

Formal Program Given By Cabinet Member Before Diet.

HIGHER RATIOS TO BE DEMANDED

Government Considers Denouncing Limits Washington Pact.

TOKYO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Admiral Mineo Osumi minister of the navy, stated to the house of representatives today that Japan's strength in cruisers destroyers and submarines will be slightly superior to that of the United States at the end of 1936

The admiral's statement was presented in writing in response to persistent questioning by representatives on the relative sea power of Japan and America

Compares Only With U. S.

The admiral did not mention the navy of Great Britain or of any other power, but confined himself to a comparison of the Japanese and United States navies at the end of 1936 when the present naval treaties may possibly expire.

The figures assumed the completion of the present Japanese naval progrma for which appropriations are included in the 1934-1935 budget, now up for discussion by the diet, as well as the United States program as approved by the United States congress, exclusive of the Vinson bill

Vinson Bill Passes House.

(The bill referred to is that offered by Chairman Vinson of the naval committee which was passed yesterday by the American house of representatives providing for a program of naval replacements to cost $475,000,000 to $570,000.000. By this bill 65 destroyers, 30 submarines, and one airplane carrier would be constructed over a five-year period.)

Osumi's statement climaxed several days of debate in the lower house of the diet on the naval policy of Japan. Previously the naval minister had reiterated Japan's determination to demand increased ratios at the next conference of naval powers although he declined to indicate the extent of the Japanese demands

Treaty Decision Not Made.

He likewise declined to state whether Japan would denounce the Washington naval treaty prior to December 31, 1934, in accordance with the treaty's provisions

Instead, he told his questioners: "We have almost a year to decide that point, which the government is studying carefully"

WORK OF P. T. A. IS EMPHASIZED

Conference of School Heads Hears Mrs. Paul Bradley.

The present and future of our great republic will be fixed with what we have of character and not what we have in wealth. Mrs Paul Bradley, Omaha, president of the Nebraska P T A told county superintendents at their convention at the Cornhusker hotel Wednesday. Mrs Bradley spoke on 'Beacon Lights for Childhood" and laid special stress on the part that the P T. A. is playing in character building and parent education

"The beacon lights are schools, churches, homes and our democratic government," Mrs. Bradley said, "and the P T A. is the most constructive force in the world today. She stated that it was not a dictatorial organization but rather one that has as its aim, co-operation with school administration in raising educational standards. There are 300 parent-teachers associations in Nebraska with a membership of over 19,000 and linked with the national organization.

Nearly Fourth Lincoln High School Pupils React To Tuberculosis Test, But Only 3 Per Cent In Need Care

Only three per cent of 1,162 Lincoln high school pupils given a Mantoux skin test for tuberculosis during the recent CWS survey by the Lincoln and Lancaster county Tuberculosis association have sufficient infection to need medical care. Dr E W Hancock reported at the annual meeting of the group at the postoffice building Wednesday afternoon

His report stated that 22.5 per cent were reactors to the test, which indicated some degree of infection but analysis of X-rav examinations showed no acute cases Mrs Kitlen M Cosandier field nurse for the Association said the return was about what was expected "In the east" she said the figure runs about 28 per cent"

There were 207 reactors in the 1, 2 and 3 classes, of which 101 were boys and 106 girls the report stated Classes are made up by degree with number 1 the least infection and number 4 the greatest Only two were in the number four class

185 Get X-Ray Tests.

Of the 207 in the three high classes 185 were given X-ray tests Home calls will be made in each of these cases Of those tested 627 were boys and 536 were girls The average age of the boys infected was 16 8 years and of the infected girls the average age was 16 1 years Approximately half of those tested showed negative reactions

Analysis of the figures shows that no foreign born children were tested It was also learned that the parents of reactors came from eleven different foreign countries Nineteen of the girl reactors were

Supply Ship Arrives At Byrd's Camp

Bear of Oakland Reaches Bay of Whales at Critical Time.

ABOARD ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP, Little America, Jan 31—(AP)—The Bear of Oakland, supply ship of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, arrived at the Bay of Whales last midnight (5 a m, Lincoln time).

The vessel hove into sight at a critical time in the camp at Bay of Whales Crumbling ice has endangered supplies which are being landed and taken to the winter camp.

The Bear of Oakland sailed from Dunedin, New Zealand, two weeks ago. It carries a number of essential supplies for the expedition

The flagship of the expedition today continued its desperate struggle to finish the discharge of stores, continuing a hit and run game with crumbling masses of ice

After cruising and drifting within the bay for 61 hours, vainly seeking a safe berth, she came alongside the ice yesterday afternoon and her weary crew commenced to unload She was able to hold that position only five hours and cast off when wide cracks opened to the south

At 4 a m, today she was again driven off and for a few minutes it appeared the vessel would not escape undamaged She had made a second berth alongside the ice at 7 o'clock last night.

UNITED STATES DANCES TO HELP CRIPPLED YOUTH

Roosevelt Birthday Party Has 48 States and Alaska for Floor.

"No Man Ever Had a Finer Remembrance," Declares President.

(By the Associated Press)

America danced into the dawn today to give its president "the happiest birthday I have ever known"

After the ball was over—the 6-000 or more balls that were held in every state and territory of the union—a fund that may reach two million dollars was held forth to the president for the benefit of sufferers from infantile paralysis

Figures that are official will not be available for several days for the committee in New York which directed the amazing party honoring the anniversary of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's birth asked the thousands of local committes not to spend money in telegraphing dollar and attendance statistics to it

A canvass by the Associated Press indicated today, however, that when final figures are available they will show that more than a million persons participated in the celebration and that receipts exceeded $1,000,000

Democracy keynoted the night Swells in tail coats and lumberjacks in flannel shirts lovely ladies with jewels about their necks and Indian squaws who wear babies on their back—white man negro, Esquimo—all creeds all colors, all classes—danced at this birthday party which had 48 states and Alaska for its floor

Then there were those at Warm Springs Ga.—Franklin Delano Roosevelt's 'other home" who danced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP) — President Roosevelt conferred this afternoon with his monetary experts and an early move toward lowering the gold content of the dollar appeared imminent.

A proclamation fixing the gold content of the dollar somewhere between 40 and 50 per cent less than at present is the next step in the Roosevelt managed currency program

Those who met with the president today were Secretary Morgenthau Governor Black of the federal reserve board, Governor Harrison of the New York Fedeal reserve bank Prof George F. Warren and James H Rogers, monetary experts, and Herman Oliphant, counsel to the treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan 31—(AP)—Holding absolute control of the nation's monetary gold, President Roosevelt probably will take before sunset the step that will shrink the gold behind each dollar to around 60 per cent of its present height

Mr Roosevelt called his financial chiefs to meet with him at 2 15 this afternoon From this conference is expected the presidential proclamation that will fix the gold dollar value for an indefinite period.

Title rested in the government today to $4,029,100,000 of monetary gold, by latest treasury figures

Should the president decree a 60 per cent revaluation—the indicated figure—the United States automatically will profit by $2,-686 000 000.

Almost immediately after his proclamation, Mr Roosevelt is expected to issue an executive order creating a two billion dollar stabilization fund out of these profits

AUTO TESTING PLAN DEBATED

Council Prepares For Final Vote After Public Hearing.

Except for writing in a clause requiring adjustment of brakes and lights on used cars before they can be sold, the revised traffic ordinance, containing compulsory brake and light testing of automobiles and motorcycles, is ready for final vote next Monday city councilmen said following a hearing on the measure Wednesday at the city hall

Whether the ordinance will muster a majority in the council will be determined at a conference to be called by Mayor Fenton B Fleming.

The hearing was attended by representatives of the garagemen, brake and light shopmen, the public safety committee, and a number of car owners

Small Shops Fear Act.

The most severe criticism of the brake and light provisions of the ordinance was voiced by the garagemen, who fear the measure will cause some of the smaller shops to lost a large part of their business. To this Milton Gates, who styled himself a small garage owner, replied 'I will be happy to operate under the ordinance I do not believe I will lose a single customer if it is enacted'

The garagemen's association un-

As Rogers Sees It

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 31 — The vice-president and Mrs. Garner's party to the president was one of the finest and most enjoyed affairs you ever saw. They were marvelous hosts, and the president did enjoy himself. Mr Roosevelt couldn't get over Mr Garner staying up till 12 o'clock.

Been visiting and listening to speeches in both ends of the capitol all day. Debating on the big navy bill in the house Was talking to a lady congressman, and she said to me, "Why do all those men say that a big navy will bring peace?" I told her "Well, even if it don't bring peace, it will come in mighty handy.

Blond Goddess

A New Serial By HERBERT JENSEN

SYNOPSIS: Janice Kent, the movie star, has disappeared and a man named Ortega, ostensibly in Hollywood to negotiate for a Mexican picture with the producer Myberg, has disappeared also. Frank Grahame, explorer and his friend Spin Winslow, aviator and stunt man, believe Ortega has abducted Janice, and follow what they hope is the right trail in a battered old airplane. At Caliente they find a party answering the proper description has taken the Encinada road, and again take the air. But the plane cracks up; they drop into the sea—and Spin cannot swim.

Chapter 11
THE BLOCKADE.

Grahame, bending over the prostrate flyer high up on the little shelving bench, saw Winslow's eyes open. For an instant the eyes were blank; whereupon consciousness flooded them. He smiled uncertainly.

"Spin Winslow," he murmured, "once Consolidated's stunt-man; now does bathing beauty bits. Thanks, Frank."

"Shut up, you idiot, and lie still. Here—"

But Winslow had rolled over on his chest, and drawing his knees under him strove to rise. Encircling his waist with his arm, Frank pulled him to his feet.

"I'm all right," Spin gasped, "arm's still on the fritz but I can walk. Let's get up to the road."

Facing the sea, between them and the road-level above, was a short cliff. Grahame pushed his companion before him. They made slow progress, Winslow hooking his sound elbow and knees into crevices in the sandstone wall, and Frank supporting him with his shoulder from behind. Finally they sprawled over the lip of the cliff.

It was a scant two hundred yards to the road. They stumbled over loose rock until they stood upon the stony and muddy unevenness that was called the road to Encinada.

Winslow said, "Well, here we are. Once when the road was dry I made it from Caliente to Encinada — that's seventy miles — in two hours. But I nearly tore the tires off doing it. Our friends won't go so fast. Even with their hour's start, I think we're ahead of them."

"Hope so," commented Grahame briefly.

He strode to the side of the highway and began pulling rocks into the middle of the road.

"That's the stuff, Frank. Get a few of those babies festooned across and they'd stop a tractor."

Frank completed his barricade. It was not elaborate but it would serve. There was the possibility that a car other than the one they awaited would come first. In that case, he would commandeer it—if he could—to take them into the town ahead.

Winslow's arm—it was a break or a dislocation—would need prompt attention. And doubtless it was more practical to await the arrival of Janice Kent and her abductors flanked by local authority. It was the saner performance, and safer perhaps for Janice.

There was always the possibility that he would fail to stop the car. The car contained, he knew, three determined men. They would be armed, doubtlessly. Well, so would he, but three against one, with Janice's presence jeopardizing his efficiency, were odds that gave him some little thought.

He took out his army automatic, slipped out the clip and shook it free of water; he slid back the cocking mechanism and with his handkerchief wiped the arm as free of moisture as he could. Winslow, watching from the roadside, whistled.

"Haven't seen one of those for years," he said. "If the cops back in town caught you with that they'd write you a letter."

Frank grinned. "Just an ounce of prevention, Spin. Hope I won't have to use it."

"Another of the famous last words," chuckled Spin.

They seated themselves on roadside boulders. There was a moon nearly full overhead and by its light Frank saw that his companion's face was pale and strained. While he had been dragging the half-conscious flyer through the surf they'd been given a bad pounding.

The water had been warm — warmer than the air that now was biting through their sodden garments. Frank hoped that they would not have long to wait.

Suddenly Spin's shoulder bumped his own; he thrust out his arm and caught the stunt-man as he slipped from his seat. Winslow was out again.

As he dragged off his coat, he heard the murmur of a distant engine. He brushed loose stones from a spot on the ground and adjusted his companion's limp form upon it. The rolled coat he put under the lolling head. The engine's sound was louder: a beam of swinging light glowed and vanished upon hillsides a quarter mile to the north.

Frank stepped behind his improvised barricade of stones and drew his weapon. The stones across the road would stop the car he was sure—unless the driver elected to crash through.

If the driver suspected he was being stopped he might make the attempt; it did not matter whether the car was the one he awaited or some stranger. The driver's reaction—seeing an armed man waiting on the other side of the barricade—would be the same.

He withdrew to the side and crouched behind a larger boulder.

Headlights glared from behind the nearest turn. The engine roared spasmodically as the car lurched over the uneven road-bed.

Frank could not discover the car's make or condition behind the dazzling light. The automobile approached the rocks strung across the road; he heard the springs squeak their protest at the jouncing. Brakes squealed. A man within the car called something unintelligible. He heard the ratchet of the band-brake click.

As the driver's door opened he saw suddenly that this was the tan car that had crashed Janice's Kent's motor at the Hollywood intersection three nights before. Now, however, the top was up and the side-curtains fastened. He arose from behind his boulder and leaped forward.

A man stepped out of the open door. Startled recognition leaped into his eyes as he saw Grahame. Over his shoulder Frank was conscious of a gleam of metal. Instinctively he swerved.

Flame stabbed from within the car—a gun crashed. Frank felt the tug of the passing bullet at the side of his coat. The driver's hand was thrust within his coat lapel. Before he could withdraw it, Frank swung his pistol forward.

The heavy barrel met the forehead of the other. The driver lurched backward against a fender. Grahame swung and dropped to his knees. Again the gun from within the car roared.

Frank threw up the muzzle of his weapon and fired at the flash. A man cried out; there was the clang of metal. A door struck tinnily against the side of the car.

Springing to his feet, Frank tore at the rear door of the car. He jerked it open, twisted sideways and thrust his gun within. Instantly he saw that the two opposite doors were open. Through the other rear door he saw two men clawing up the short embankment.

The one to the left thrust up his hand gripping at a road post. It was black-spotted with blood. As he watched, the other, a smaller man, drew himself erect upon the top of the bank. His face was in profile.

The nose was disproportionately large, a hooked beak of a nose predatory and vulturine. Frank's gun lifted; his trigger finger contracted slightly. He did not fire, but shook his head to throw off the confusing mist the clash had induced. He peered into the dark recess of the tonneau.

Janice Kent was there. Her face was vague, her eyes round and staring. He saw that she was gagged. Fumblingly he worked at the knot at the back of her neck. He was conscious of a curious combination of odors—the acrid tang of exploded gunpowder an a fragrance that was Janice Kent's hair. His hands shook a little.

The cloth about her mouth dropped. He lowered his arms and encircled her. He lifted her from the seat and backed through the door. Setting her upon the ground he saw that her hands were tied. It took him but an instant to loosen the knots.

She swayed toward him. For a distressing instant he thought that she was about to faint. He put his arms about her to hold her upright; curiously she did not fall, but pressed against him; her hands gripped the cloth of his coat tightly.

"Janice!" he muttered a little hoarsely, "are you all right?"

Her cheek seemed to press his lapel. She murmured, "I don't know. I think so. I—"

Nearby a masculine voice spoke anxiously. "She all right, Frank? They haven't—"

Sharply Janice Kent withdrew from Frank's support. They looked toward the voice. Winslow stood in the light of the car's headlights.

"Sorry, folks. I just came to. Didn't mean to interrupt the Fella nearly kicked my face in a minute ago on his way over the hill. He was certainly going places."

WARN AGAINST TUGWELL BILL

Throop, Wilson Advise Cosmetologists of Its Dangers.

Nebraska Independent Cosmetologists closed their annual style and educational show Tuesday evening following a banquet at which Frank D. Throop, president of the chamber of commerce, and Smith C. Wilson, chairman of the fraternal relations committee of the retail druggists' association, were heard in opposition to the Tugwell bill.

Warning the members to guard their organization jealously, Mr. Throop, after extending the welcome of the chamber of commerce, said that "only through organization can you properly protect yourself in the tumultuous days that accompany the 'New Deal.'"

Urges Watchfulness.

"You must be very watchful," Mr. Throop said, "that some idealist, who has in mind to make the world perfect, does not make a mistake that will force your profession to stop. In attempting to correct a minor difficulty, sometimes it is very possible to make another mistake that will affect even more people more seriously than the defect which the reformer is attempting to correct. I refer, of course, to the late Tugwell bill, which died in committee, but was revived almost in its entirety in the bill by Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York."

"That bill as drafted represented one of the most dangerous and most subtle pieces of legislation ever written," Mr. Throop declared.

Mr. Throop extended invitation on behalf of the chamber of commerce for the NICO to hold its next convention in Lincoln. A telegram of invitation to meet in Hastings for the next convention was also received from the Hastings chamber of commerce. No action was taken on the invitations.

Wilson Advises Amendment.

"Although there may possibly be some need for correcting some difficulties, I do not believe that it is necessary for a new bill to be enacted," Smith Wilson said. "I believe that it would be sufficient to amend the old bill in such a manner that it would correct any difficulties."

Greetings were given by Alice Graf, secretary of the Iowa board of cosmetology examiners; Nelle Ramsey, president of the Kansas State Cosmetology organization; and Ann Rytterager, president of the South Dakota Cosmetology organization. A telegram of greeting from Mrs. M. A. McGavaran, national president of the American Cosmeticians Organization, was read. C. E. Black of Lincoln and V. E. David, jr., of Seward also spoke briefly.

Governor Charles W. Bryan also sent his greetings.

Mrs. Sellhorn served as toastmaster, and introduced her two colleagues on the Nebraska board of cosmetology examiners, Mrs. Agnes Schmitt and Dolly Dickerson Sherlock.

It was announced at the meeting that membership in the organization had reached a new high of 879. A carnival dance closed the evening.

Correct this sentence: "We hired her to teach school," said the chairman of the board, "and her religion is none of our business."

CARS DERAILED.

OMAHA, Jan. 31—(AP)—Wreckage caused by the derailment early yesterday of 20 cars of a southbound Missouri Pacific freight train near Fort Crook was cleared from the tracks late yesterday and traffic resumed. A broken rail is believed to have caused the wreck. No one was injured in the accident but a wreckage crew member was hurt during the day when hit by the tongs on a crane.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Social Death Warrants.

The surest way I know not to be popular is to develop into a habitual fault-finder.

This trait is surely the most maddening irritant among the unfortunate characteristics which prevail. Yet it's a habit which is found frequently and confined to no one age or sex or degree of life.

"Why do you let your husband run over you so; why don't you show a little spunk and tell him where to head in?", asks the best friend, making luncheon or bridge-table conversation.

The victim is left gasping for breath and clawing the air. If she retaliates that she thinks it much better to let Hubby have his way than to constantly and publicly haul him over the coals in public, as the questioned has a way of doing, she is only further contributing to a boresome ond embarrassing conversation of bitter personalities. If she merely blushes and says nothing which she probably does, she knows she is appearing inane and weakly defenseless. It is certain that she thereby resolves not to invite the tactless, or malicious, woman to any more of her luncheons. And the final result of the fault-finding tendency of the one woman is sure to be ultimate unpopularity.

Many times, the fault finding is even more direct. "Why do you wear black, when you should know you are not highly colored enough to get away with it?" "You certainly made yourself conspicuous running after Mr. Eligible at the party last night." "Why don't you take up golf or get yourself a rowing machine to get rid of that spare tire around your waist?" "How long do you think you can drive that family antique of yours?" And on and on they go, these fault-finders who seem to find delight in making their victims writhe uncomfortably, but as they do, are surely signing their own social death warrants

Patching It Up.

Dear Minerva: My boy friend has been acting strangely for about a month. He never speaks to me, only to say "Hello," never another word. Often I see him looking at me strangely although he never talks—just smiles. We used to get along very well together, but because of a mistake made by someone else, we broke up. I am willing to patch up the quarrel but he doesn't act like he wants to. I have tried several times to talk to him, but he makes no move to help me enter into a conversation. I feel it is his place to speak to me now.

I have tried to forget, but it seems impossible I had made up my mind I didn't like him, but when I saw him again, all hopes were lost. Please advise me. I like him so much I want to make up.

E. M.

A. The move is decidedly his' Even if you do like him, and do want to "make up," you don't want to be a little jelly fish and crawl humbly up to beg him to notice you Have more spunk. If you can't forget him you can at least pretend that he is out of your mind. Enjoy your other friends, and in time you will find someone who will do just as well, and probably a lot better. Either he is disinterested, or is extremely petulant. In either case you don't want to woo him and beg him to be friends.

Sensible Plan.

Dear Minerva: People always advise a wife to take an intelligent interest in her husband's business. But, when I try to talk to my husband of his business, he either laughs at me or gets cross. He says my business is the home and our children and social life. We haven't any children yet, but hope to have some day. Then he says he can manage his business just like he always did that I wouldn't be interested in hearing about it, and wouldn't understand it anyway. It is just maddening to have him act that way, for I think a husband and wife should share all of each other's interests. Don't you?

BETTY.

A. Can't say that I do, Betty. There is no general rule to apply to this little problem of yours any more than there are general rules to apply to any matrimonial puzzle. In your family, it is most obviously your cue to let your husband close his business up with his desk each evening, and for you to provide him with pleasant distractions that will enable him to put business out of his mind. It's a very sensible plan, too.

Answered Briefly.

Margaret: You want to have pets for your children, but your husband thinks they are a nuisance and useless expense and argues against it. I agree with you that every child should have one pet or more. They learn much of responsibility kindness and get more wholesome pleasure out of pets of their own than through any other source. But I wouldn't advise you to oppose your husband's will in this matter. For the children and pets would both have a sorry time of it if father felt that the pets were transgressors. If you can't win him over, better give up the idea.

Nellie: I cannot understand how parents can object to social dancing, in this day and age, when all young people do dance. Maybe you could win your parents over to letting the young people dance by the radio music in your own home. Then, they could see for themselves that it is a harmless and active as well as generally accepted form of diversion.

District Nurses Group Renames Ursula Penner

Ella Gimmestad Outlines Nursing Program Under Federal Relief System.

Miss Ursula Penner of Beatrice was unanimously re-elected president of District No. 3 of the state nurses' association at the annual meeting in the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday afternoon. Nearly 50 nurses attended.

Other officers are: Mrs. Frieda Penfold, vice president; Miss Mary Walker, secretary; Miss Sylvia Reese, treasurer; and Mrs. Kittee Cosandier, director.

A discussion of nursing in Nebraska under federal relief by Ella Gimmestad headed the speaking program. Edith Williams spoke on "Newer Trends in Drug Therapy," and Ruth A. Warner gave an illustrated lecture.

A clog dance was given by students of St. Elizabeth's hospital.

MRS. E. E. WATTS FUNERAL.

FULLERTON, Neb., Jan. 31—(AP)—Funeral services were held here Tuesday for Mrs. Edward E. Watts who died Sunday. Mrs. Watts had been an invalid since the car she was driving crashed into a parked automobile several weeks ago. Two grand-children, Victor and Marjorie Rasmussen, live in Lincoln. A son, William, lives in Chicago and a sister, Mrs. J. O. Thompson, in Dix.

DOUBT CAST ON BOND ELECTIONS

PWA Grant Conditions Should Be Separate Vote, Says Good.

Bond issues approved by municipalities and school districts contingent upon federal PWA grants are improper unless voters were given opportunity to vote separately upon all issues involved, Attorney General Paul F. Good rules Tuesday.

Good's opinion was given to State Auditor W. B. Price who had questioned the validity of a Roca school district No. 65 bond issue, which was approved conditional upon obtaining a 30 per cent federal grant of funds and refused to register the bond issue. In his opinion, however, the attorney general said that the bonds would be valid if issued and sold under a proviso certifying that the issue had met all requirements of law.

Many other elections in Nebraska at which bond issues were voted conditional upon obtaining a federal PWA grant may be affected by the decision. Good indicated that the opinion and the belief of the counsel for the state PWA advisory board that such conditional elections are invalid would mean that federal approval of the projects involved and allotments must be obtained prior to the election.

"It appears," Good's opinion in the Roca school district case said, "that the question of the issue of bonds to build a school house, the question of authorizing the school board to make application to procure from the federal emergency administrator of public works a grant of 30 per cent of the amount deemed necessary to build the school house and the question of authorizing the school board to contract for the erection of the proposed building were all submitted at the same time and on the same ballot. This may lawfully be done, but in my judgment the ballots should be so arranged as to permit each question to be voted upon separately. That was not done in the instant case."

Auditor Price feels that he should refuse to register the Roca issue, in spite of the attorney general's saving conclusion that the issue would be valid if carrying the school district's certification that all legal requirements had been met.

Rule On Personal Mail Is Modified

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Congressman Edgar Howard of Nebraska today said the farm credit administration had agreed to modify its rules about mail to employes of the regional agricultural credit corporation at Omaha which he said violated the sanctity of private mail. The FCA had required mail to employes to be opened by officials. The modification, he said, would not permit mail marked personal, private or confidential to be opened by anyone except the person to whom addressed. Howard said the compromise was not entirely satisfactory, but was an improvement.

Weather Moderating Throughout State

Lincoln's latest dash of cold weather gave way to rapidly moderating temperatures Tuesday night and Wednesday. The mercury, which tumbled Tuesday morning to one above zero for the next to the coldest night of the winter, scarcely went below the freezing point Tuesday night.

The temperature here failed to touch the 32 degree mark until 4 o'clock Wednesday morning and the minimum recording was 30 degrees at 8 o'clock.

Warmer weather outstate, also, is indicated by the following weather bureau stations reports: North Platte 34, Valentine 38; Sioux City, 36, Omaha, 32. There was no precipitation at any of these points.

Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!

1 Crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water.

2 GARGLE thoroughly—throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat.

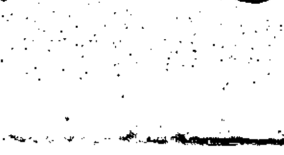

3 Repeat gargle and do not rinse mouth, allow gargle to remain on membranes of the throat for prolonged effect.

Remember Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes!

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles.

FINANCE AIDES ARE CALLED IN BY PRESIDENT

clared himself ready—to preserve the price of the dollar at the desired figure in foreign exchange and to maintain the price of government securities.

The operations will remain secret but two main channels are open. By buying and selling gold, foreign exchange and other instruments of credit, economic theory holds that the dollar abroad could be raised or lowered.

By buying government bonds the stabilization fund could be used as a weapon for keeping stable quotations on federal securities during coming months when the treasury will borrow nine billion dollars.

The president today was assured that the nation's most powerful financial factors—the treasury and federal reserve system—would work as a unit in his managed currency plans.

These pledges were given him yesterday by his financial advisers at a conference preceding the signing of the dollar revaluation bill.

All doubts of full Federal Reserve bank co-operation—prompted by their opposition to government capture of their $3,500,000,000 in gold—were removed when an authoritative spokesman said after that meeting:

"We asked for legislation and got it. Now we'll pay the game."

Although today's prospective action is seen as the greatest actual step thus far taken in the American experiment of a managed currency—aimed mainly at increasing commodity prices—the citizenry probably will feel no immediate effect.

That is, the dollar will still be exchangeable for 100 pennies and a $10 bill can still be handed in for ten $1 bills.

While watching the effect on prices and business and other activity in this country, skilled observers believe currency conversations with London—which has an equally large equalization fund—will be the next logical action.

These same officials, however do not believe Great Britain is ready to devalue the pound and will not forecast the outcome of such negotiations.

Doctors Are Optimistic Over Traylor's Progress

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Melvin A. Traylor was in generally improved condition today, his temperature down to 99.8 degrees and "all phases of his illness much better," his doctors reported.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Although Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, slept fitfully during the night, his physicians today continued to express optimism over his progress toward recovery from pneumonia.

They diagnosed his illness last night as a type of the ailment caused by Friedlander's bacillus, encountered frequently among the soldiers of all nations during the World war.

MALMO BANK AGREEMENTS.

Agreements representing 99 per cent of depositors claims in the bank at Malmo have been signed for the plan of liquidating its assets which was proposed by its officers and directors, Attorney J. B. Fradenburg reported at the capitol Wednesday. The state banking department has been asked to approve the plan of settlement, which includes waivers by the depositors of their claims against the stockholders for double liability.

Plans Launched For Statewide Observance Arbor Day April 23

Jean R. Kinder of Lincoln, former Nebraska department commander of the American Legion, Wednesday launched plans for a statewide observance of Arbor day, April 23. Nearly 300 persons will be placed on committees to carry out the plans, he said.

The movement was started by the legion post and chamber of commerce at Nebraska City, home of J. Sterling Morton, founder of Arbor day. Kinder is head of the statewide movement and announced committeemen will be named in practically every city and town of the state. They will be selected in a few days.

Plans call for observance of Arbor day in every Nebraska city, town and rural school district.

An invitation has been sent to Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace to speak at an Arbor day celebration program in Nebraska City.

ENO BROTHERS ARE TAKEN TO KANSAS PRISON

Kansas county making the best claim on them.

Wanted In Otoe County.

NEBRASKA CITY, Jan. 31— (AP)—County Attorney George H. Heinke said today he would try to extradite Clarence Eno, who was captured at Tulsa, to Nebraska for the Syracuse and Nebraska City bank robberies.

Claim Enos Identified.

Clarence Eno has been identified as a participant in two recent Nebraska bank robberies while his brother, Otis, was tentatively identified in a third, according to authorities.

Clarence was identified by witnesses of the holdup of the Merchants National bank of Nebraska City October 21 and also by witnesses of the robbery of the First National bank of Syracuse December 22, Acting State Sheriff Fred Benton said. Witnesses of the looting of the Home State bank of Humboldt November 1, said pictures of Otis Eno bore a strong resemblance to one of the bandits participating in that raid, according to Benton.

Sheriff Benton advanced the suggestion that the third member of the trio seized at Tulsa Tuesday and identified only as "Jimmie" may be Fred Bradshaw, associate of the Enos and sought as a suspect in the Syracuse job along with Clarence Eno.

animously endorsed compulsory brake and light testing in a resolution that was read to the council by H. L. Britt. A fee of 25 cents for inspections also was favored, but it was set out in the resolution that the inspections should be made by the police department or some one employed by the city, instead of by the garagemen and wheel and brake shops. If the ordinance is passed, the opponents promised "full co-operation" toward enforcing it.

P. R. Chevalier made a plea for a clause that will relieve adjustors from responsibility where brakes need new linings, yet can be adjusted to comply temporarily with the ordinance. This cannot be done, Deputy City Attorney Lloyd Chapman declared, if the ordinance is to retain a simplicity that will permit of enforcement. He brought out that the certificate which is to be issued to the car owner only says that the brakes and lights were in proper condition on the day the inspections were made.

Urges Police Inspection.

A. L. Weatherly, speaking as a car owner, appealed for inspections every day by the police. "The ordinance is good, but to make it fulfill its purpose the police must be on the job every minute," he declared. "The success of our entire traffic problem rests with the police."

Ralph Wilson declared the measure cannot be enforced. "It is a dead letter before it is passed," he said. "Accidents are caused by wild drivers, and this law does not touch them. It only affects the man who doesn't care about his brakes, while inflicting a penalty on the owner who is careful."

Wilson's statement was disputed by Dee Eiche, who contended that the fact that the garagemen and wheel and brake shop owners are the ones who will make the inspections, alone will be a material influence in helping enforcement. "We are going to know what cars need brakes and better lights," he said. "And don't forget for a minute that we are going to try and sell the equipment. I am tickled to death to work under the measure. I believe it will go a long way toward solving our accident problems."

When W. A. Dailey objected to the 25 cent fee, and referred to Georgia's automobile taxes, Mark Caster declared, "Georgia is a poor state to hold up as an example. When they are selling licenses to any one at $3 they are doing something contemptible. They are going further to invite violations of traffic laws than any state in the country."

E. R. Heiny, general manager of the Lincoln Traction Co. was assured that firms like the traction company, having their own brake and light testing equipment, will not be compelled to test for others.

FIND AUTOMOBILE STOLEN AT WAYNE STANDING ON ROAD

NORFOLK, Neb., Jan. 31—(AP)—The automobile stolen Tuesday night from Chief of Police Stewart of Wayne, and from which the thief exchanged pistol shots with Alex Gabler, Winside marshal, was found this morning abandoned on a road about four miles west of Winside.

Theft of the car was discovered a short time after it had occurred and Wayne authorities immediately telephoned officers in nearby towns to keep a lookout for the machine. Marshal Gabler saw the thief speeding through Winside and when unsuccessful in getting him to stop fired several shots at the automobile. The thief returned the fire but no one was struck.

Upon abanding the machine the theif took with him two pistols Chief Stewart had left in the car.

group of defeated candidates in a primary, with some of those who were elected on the promise of jobs. "For the first time within my recollection we have examples of defeated candidates being appointed to responsible positions ,and while to responsible positions, and while work, I certainly do not want the condition which makes it possible continued," Bair declared. "It opens the way to one of the most powerful political machines imaginable."

The second proposal is aimed at the city charter provision which makes each of the five commissioners superintendent of a department, a system which has come to be known in city hall circles as "the five little kingdoms." Interference by the whole council with the independence of one of these departments has sometimes created serious friction. The system has also been criticized by observers because, in the hope of preserving independence for their own departments, commissioners are sometimes loath to oppose activities in other departments, regardless of what their judgment dictates.

Proposes Committees.

To eliminate the "five little kingdoms," Bair proposes committees of the councilmen, with each commissioner being the chairman of a committee. As such, he would be the head of a department the same as at present, but the policies of each branch would be determined by the entire committee.

A setup of this kind would do away with much of the trouble that has been experienced by members of the present council, Mr. Bair contends. Not only would it eliminate the necessity of one man taking the responsibility for appointments, but it also would do away with all possibility of a commissioner "being everlastingly on the spot."

Melvin Martin, N. U. Graduate, Now Denies Soviet Paid His Way

OMAHA, Jan. 31— (AP) —Melvin Martin, 24, who graduated last month from the University of Nebraska and who, while there, heard charges that the soviet union was paying his way through school, will leave here April 2 to assume a teaching position in a Russian university.

Melvin's career at Lincoln was marked by charges of Robert Armstrong, state legion commander, that the soviet was providing him with funds, and former State Sheriff Michael Endres once threatened an investigation of communist activities at the university, supposedly led by Martin.

Today, Melvin pointed to a long white butcher's apron he was wearing in his father's butcher shop here, and remarked:

"This is how the soviet union pay my way."

When Martin first came to Lincoln, he told reporters that he was born and reared in Russia, and that he had been sent here to study engineering by the soviet government, and that the U. S. S. A. was paying his way. He was active here in an organization which called itself "Friends of the Soviet Union" and met occasionally at a local hotel.

Deer Drops Dead

One of the Virginia deer at Pioneers park dropped dead Monday, Chet Ager, park executive said Wednesday. He did not know the cause. Only a short time before the animal was lively and apparently perfectly healthy, he said. The deer was the mother of twins born last spring. Her death reduces the number of twins born last spring. Her death reduces the number of this species in the parks to three.

DELAY GRAVEL HEARING

The state railway commission Wednesday postponed from March 7 to March 12 the hearing on the application of railroads for revision of the uniform, emergency sand and gravel rate. The carriers seek revision upward of the rate to conform with Kansas sand and gravel tariffs. Postponement of the hearing was necessitated by conflict of the date with a hearing before the interstate commerce commission which C. A. Ross, rate expert for the state commission, will attend.

Red square, the burial place of the nation's heroes.

155 Miles from Moscow.

The actual point of the crash is 155 miles southeast of Moscow in the Mordoffsky region and five miles from the Katoshkino railroad station on the Moscow-Kazan railroad.

At 11:42 a. m. yesterday the balloon reported:

"Height 20,600 meters (67,585 feet). Listen, Listen."

The ground station replied:

"Congratulations on your brilliant success. We expect you to supply us with new data concerning the content of the atmosphere and the cosmic rays from a height never reached before.

"Soviet science will be enriched by your achievements."

At 11:59 a. m., the balloon reported:

"Our last observation. Barometer 45. We begin the descent.

"Temperature inside plus 29 (84 above zero Fahrenheit.) We have studied the cosmic rays."

At 4:00 p. m., the ground station heard signals from the balloon but they were too weak to read. This was the last word received from the balloon.

From the time of the takeoff, the balloon was never seen again until the tragedy was discovered.

MOSCOW, Jan. 31—(AP)—An unconfirmed report saying all three members of the crew of the record-breaking stratosphere balloon "Osoaviakhim" were killed reached the soviet capital today.

Nothing had been heard from the balloon since last night when it sent a wireless message that it was trying to find a landing place in a heavy fog.

Airplanes, sent to direct the balloonists to safety, were unable to find the great bag and its cargo of men who ascended yesterday to a height they reported as being higher than any before reached by man.

Grope For Hours.

The last word received from the balloonists by radio last night, after they had groped for hours trying to pierce the heavy fog for a landing, was that they were trying to make a descent near Columna.

A search of the region, about 75 miles from Moscow, proved fruitless. Belief was expressed that the craft had descended, however, because no further messages were received.

A squadron of planes sent out to guide the balloonists yesterday failed to sight the craft. After reaching an altitude which they reported as 67,585 feet, the balloon crew radioed they could not determine their position.

Commander Prokofieff, who took an army balloon up 62,304 feet last September expressed belief there was no cause for alarm. The craft might have landed, he said, at some remote point, and it might be a day or two before the men could reach a place from which they could report to Moscow.

our prisons empty by keeping our schools filled," Mrs. Bradley said following her plea for concerted representation to the national congress for putting through a federal relief program for education. In establishing the grounds for such a program she pointed out that millions were being spent on roads that could be built next year, but that education lost now through closed schools can never be regained. "We can ride on bumpy roads in Nebraska, if they lead to schoolhouses," she declared.

J. L. McBrien speaking first on recollection of the past asked for support in fomenting sentiment for a longer tenure of office for superintendents and a federal aid program for schools. He voiced the opinion that only through continuous service over a longer period of time than four years, could a county superintendent do the most efficient and effective work.

Mr. McBrien also declared that the superintendents could be a vital force in arousing their constituents to action in demanding federal aid legislation of congressmen and senators at Washington.

Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, director of secondary education and teacher training reviewed the Knighthood of Youth movement and pointed out that its purpose is not only to improve scholarship but also those things that go to raise the standards of citizenship.

Advocates Set-ups.

With regard to the awarding of badges in recognition of students achievements and over which opinion is firmly divided he said. "I am definitely in favor of a set-up system, especially in the upper grades. Give children recognition when recognition is merited by achievement."

Miss Ernestine McCoy of Ft. Calhoun and Miss Elva McCoy of Johnston county led discussions on the movement following Dr. Rosenlof's address.

The afternoon session was taken up with technical discussions on phases of superintendents' work. Miss Chloe Baldridge, director of rural education presided and the following superintendents led discussions "Improving Instruction", Leora Rustin, Dawes county, and Dr. B. E. McProud, Nebraska Wesleyan; "Interpreting Needs and Problems of Rural Schools", Pearl E Sewell of Wayne county and J. I. Ray of Dodge county; "In Service to the Community", Fred S Lecron Platte county, and Charles Speedie, Otoe county.

Car Strikes Coaster Wagon; Boy Bruised

Numerous small abrasions on the face were suffered by Gene Reed, 5 son of Mrs. May Reed, 4727 Cooper street, Wednesday morning when the wagon in which he was coasting on Prescott street, between Forty-seventh and Forty - eighth streets, got into the path of an auto driven by L. M. Finks, 1044 H street. The wagon was smashed but except for the facial bruises the boy was uninjured. He was taken to his home by Finks and attended by Dr. A. I. Lovell.

Mrs. W. F. Hird, seal sale chairman of the association reported that $2,506 61 worth of stamps had been sold in 1933, or $152 95 less than in 1932.

$2,053 Balance.

The association's financial report showed a balance on hand as of January 1, of $2 053 39.

Mrs. Cosandier reported that she had made 244 home calls during the year and had interviewed 125 tuberculosis cases. She reported on various special projects which she had carried on.

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson gave a report on the nutrition classes held for 42 days last summer.

Mrs. Hazel Fisher, president of the association, gave a report on projects of the year, telling of Mrs. Florence Breed's visit here. Mrs. B. C. Hendricks, publicity chairman, and secretary, also reported.

Mrs. Fisher Re-Elected.

Mrs. Edward C. Fisher was re-elected president of the association. Dr. E. W. Hancock was elected vice-president, Mrs. B. C. Hendricks was re-named secretary and Mrs. C. M. Duff was named treasurer.

Elected to the executive committee for one year were Mrs. Edward C. Fisher, Mrs. C. M. Duff, Mrs. B. C. Hendricks, Mrs. Miles J. Breuer, and Mrs. R. A. Harrison. For the two year term, Mrs. Herman Kayser of Bennet, J. B. Worley of Waverly, P R. Easterday, Miss Narcissa Snell, and Oz Black were named. Mrs. W. F. Hird, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, O. H. Bimson, Dr. E. S. Wegner, and Dr. E. W. Hancock were named for the three year term.

Mrs. W. F. Hird was named to continue for the next year as chairma nof the annual seal sale drive.

ARMORY PROJECT CHANCE IS SLIM

lina, chairman of the military affairs committee.

Little hope for the erection of the Pershing Memorial armory was held by the chancellor unless it should be provided for from specific appropriations now before congress. Chancellor Burnett found that all of the PWA funds set aside for war department use have already been "earmarked" for other purposes and that it was not probable that an outright grant to a single state for an armory would be made because of the danger of establishing precedents. He found that had the building been planned on a 70-30 basis that the chances of early approval would be greatly increased. The PWA commission has not given a definite decision on the armory project.

A policy of not approving new projects until additional funds are available will stop the university's move to secure federal aid for destitute students, unless the request of Commissioner of Education George F. Zook for $3,000,000 per month from CWS funds is included in the new grant now before congress for its approval. Then it would be handled as a state project.

The budget items now before congress would seriously hamper engineering, agricultural work and agricultural extension and experimentation, reported the chancellor. One bill would reduce federal appropriations to land grant colleges by 25 per cent. The other would close and sell all federal dry land agriculture stations.

The first bill, expulained Chancellor Burnett, would curtail University of Nebraska appropriations from the federal sources about $74,000 while the other bill would close the experimental substation at Scottsbluff and limit the work at the North Platte substation.

While in the east Chancellor Burnett visited briefly at the University of Pennsylanvia and at Princeton university to study the organization of architecture and fine arts at those institutions.

Your Income Tax

Who Must File Returns.

Returns are required of every single person who for the year 1933 had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1933 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classed as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together may make separate returns of the income of each, or their income may be included in a single joint return. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

FRED KOHLER DEAD.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31—(AP)—Fred Kohler, 69 until his retirement a storm center for years in Cleveland public life, died last night after a paralytic stroke. He had been a nationally famous police chief, one of the city's most colorful mayors, and sheriff of Cuyahoga county. His police department's "golden rule" edict became known throughout this county and Europe.

Great Federal Fund For Cheyenne County; Man Found In Burning Car Thought Shot To Death

CHECKS CARRY JOY TO SIDNEY

Eleven Hundred Wheat Growers Get Quarter Million.

SIDNEY, Neb, Jan. 3—(AP)—Cheyenne county became Nebraska's largest beneficiary of the federal wheat acreage reduction program as officials of the county committee Tuesday began distributing checks for nearly a quarter of a million dollars to 1 100 growers Checks for slightly more than $248 000 arrived Sunday, but their arrival was kept secret until Tuesday morning while the committee and clerks worked to establish facilities for handling the rush anticipated

News that the checks were here had become widely circulated by Monday night, however, and there were few who did not know that Cheyenne county had received its share of the funds. Streets of Sidney were lined with farmers Tuesday Although they could not obtain their checks until summoned by letter to the county agent's office, rumor that the checks were here proved too great a temptation for them to remain at home.

The smiles which greeted announcement that allotment of money is available formed an interesting contrast to the feeling a year ago when the Farmers Holiday movement was at its peak.

The first check went Tuesday afternoon to Ray Tremain, a tenant, and E. L. Uptegrove, landlord. The check, for approximately $600, covered payment on contract number one. Uptegrove, Tremain and the check were photographed at allotment headquarters as the initial allotment transaction was completed.

The committee hopes to have the entire amount in the hands of the participants by Friday or Saturday. Carl Feldman, committee chairman, said this county still has more than $50,000 due on the original two-thirds payment pledged by the government

Will Hold Hearing Two Public Works Proposals Friday

FREMONT, Neb, Jan. 31—(AP)—Nebraska's public works advisory board will hold hearings here at 10 a. m Friday on two projects. W. S. Jardine of Omaha, recently appointed a member of the board, is expected to attend for the first time He succeeds John Latenser, jr., of Omaha who became the PWA engineer in Nebraska

The projects set for hearing:

Peru light plant improvements, seek grant and loan, total $37,899.

Thurston county drainage district, seek grant and loan, total $27,667.

ITHACA HAS NEW COMMUNITY HALL

(Special to The Star).

ITHACA, Neb., Jan. 31—The new $5 000 community house, a project just completed by the Women's club, the men's community club and the three church organizations here, was opened Tuesday night with a program sponsored by the men's club, Newton Gaines of Lincoln being the speaker. The Women's club had charge of the refreshments.

The building is 40 by 80 feet, one story. All labor was donated by local people, except a small amount of supervised work. A community corporation was formed to hold title to the property and manage it. August Warenberg is president, D. D. Davis vice president, Miss Alberta O'Kane secretary-treasurer, and Herman Hanke and R R. Roberts directors.

Course of Lectures In Economics Added To Night Class List

To satisfy the demand of persons interested in economic problems of the present day, the University of Nebraska extension division today announced a new night class in economics. The course will consist of a series of fifteen lectures to be given by Dean J. E. LeRossingnol of the college of business administration, and Karl M. Arndt, associate professor of economics and expert in the field of money and banking. Beginning Wednesday evening, February 7, a lecture will be given by one of these men each week in Social Sciences building. The class carries two hours credit.

Among the subjects to be discussed by the professors during the term are: Utopian socialism, Christian socialism, social philosophy of Karl Marx, consumers' cooperation, the Soviet experiment, Fascism, service vs. profit in business, reparations and war debts, international trade, the recovery program, how the codes are operating, financing the farmer, the new dollar, and inflation Twelve of the lectures will be given by Dean LeRossignol, and three by Professor Arndt. The same course was offered by them last spring in Beatrice to a class of business men and teachers.

Also added recently to the list of night classes is a course in voice methods for beginning singers, which will be taught by Lillian Helms Polley, professor of voice at the University. This class will be held on Monday evenings in the school of music building.

OPPOSE DIVERSION OF PLATTE WATER TO OTHER STREAM

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. Jan. 31—(AP)—Unqualified opposition to any effort at diversion of North Platte river waters into the basin of any other stream was expressed in a resolution of the Pathfinder irrigation district landholders Tuesday.

Sentiment at the meeting was that there would be no opposition to the Sutherland project, for which PWA funds are being sought, but that the district would fight the Tri-county project, which contemplates diversion

The Pathfinder financial report showed a cash surplus of $17,000 after all due bills were paid. Gross revenue from sales of power was $228,754 in 1933, compared with $236.917 in 1932. Operating costs were $7.451 less than in 1932. The net return was $1,091 less than the year previous Farms under the Pathfinder ditch had 81,446 acres in crops, with a total gross return of $1,952,745 or $23 98 per acre.

JURORS IN HANING CASE DISCHARGED WITHOUT VERDICT

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 31—(AP)—Failing to reach a verdict after three days of deliberation, the jury in the case of Zerne Haning, Lincoln, Neb., accused of arson, was discharged by Judge E L Fischer late Tuesday. County Attorney White announced Haning would be retried at the March term of court. He was charged with having attempted to burn a house he owned here for $2,000 insurance.

The case, which went to the jury Saturday mroning, was marked by the arrest of two defense witnesses. Mrs. Emily Haning, wife of the defendant, was charged with being an accomplice in the alleged arson plot, and Sheriff Karl Greiner of Seward county, Neb, was accused of perjury.

Sheriff Greiner testified Haning was visiting at his home at Seward the night the building was burned. Two prosecution witnesses said Haning was here at the time and helped set the fire. Mrs. Haning and Greiner will be given preliminary hearings here Feb. 6.

Schmid President Of Lincoln Hi-Y Chapters

Address Memorializing H. E. Sidles, Donor of Club Building, Given at Meeting.

Ed Schmid was named as president of the Lincoln Hi-Y chapters Tuesday night at the dinner at the club house. Other officers are vice president, Henry Remington; secretary, Charles Reilly; treasurer, Clifford Sturtevant. It was the first meeting of the second semester and the four chapters of the club were organized.

The officers were chosen by the cabinet elected two weeks ago by the club membership. Advisors for three of the four chapters were also named. They are Ralph Andrews, Paul Lamb and Harry Hoy. The fourth advisor will be named later. Genral advisors for the entire club are Oz Black and Harold Lauritson.

L. C. Oberlies and Louis Anderson were the speakers on the program. Mr. Oberlies spoke on citizenship and Mr. Anderson's address was a memorial to H. E Sidles who gave the club house to the Lincoln Hi-Y. Clinton Sturtevant led the devotions.

At the chapter meetings a project was begun on motion picture appreciation. The College View Hi-Y will meet Thursday night at College View high school for their second semester organization meeting.

METCALFE SEEKS TO BE GOVERNOR

To File For Republican Nomination During This Week.

OMAHA, Jan. 31—(AP)—Criticizing state prohibition, present methods of taxation and the conduct of various state departments, Theodore W. Metcalfe today announced his intention to file this week as a candidate for the republican nomination for governor. He asserted in a written statement that prohibition will be a definite issue in the coming campaign

"I favor the repeal of the prohibition amendment in our Nebraska constitution as the most practical way of meeting the liquor problem," Metcalfe said.

Metcalfe expressed himself as favoring 'a single retail sales tax;" complete reorganization of the state banking department; establishment of a state highway commission to work out a permanent program for Nebraska highways, adoption of a uniform system of accounting and bookkeeping in the smaller units of state government.

Omaha Court Says That Fiscal Year Is Calendar Year

OMAHA, Jan. 31—(AP)—District Judge Hastings today upheld the Douglas county board in adopting a fiscal year dating from January 1 to December 31, instead of starting from August first, as has been the custom in previous years.

The ruling was handed down in a suit filed by Anton J. Tusa of Omaha, who sought to enjoin the board from levying against the next August levy in the purchase of surgical supplies from an Omaha company.

In his ruling Judge Hastings held "that it is competent for the county of Douglas to contract indebtedness on the strength of the estimated levy on taxes for the fiscal year of 1934." The fiscal year of the county, he said, is the calendar year, and there is nothing illegal in the proposed purchase of supplies.

Cushing Tells Uses Of U. S. Education Fund in Nebraska

Uses of the federal education relief allotment to Nebraska were explained by Herbert L. Cushing, deputy state superintendent, at the Tuesday afternoon session of the state superintendent's annual conference at the Cornhusker hotel.

"We were told to use our initiative and imagination," he said, "and if any of the national heads come to Nebraska and want to know why we made a certain move, we will tell them we used what we have plenty of in Nebraska, our "initiative and imagination.'"

"We have done what we thought best and our conscience is clear. We have made mistakes, but the emergency called for emergency action," explained Mr. Cushing.

During the general discussion following, Miss Lulu Wolford explained briefly the general setup on the study centers.

FILIPINOS OPPOSED COCOANUT OIL TAX

But Shallenberger Says He Has Received Many Congratulations On Stand He Took.

WASHINGTON, Jan 31—(AP)—Manuel L. Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, yesterday presented a formal protest to Secretary of War Dern against an excise tax on coconut oil to apply to the Philippines, which ship about 500,000 000 pounds of oil annually to the United States

The protest was forwarded to the ways and means committee, which last week voted to apply a five cent per pound tax on such oil, irrespective of its origin.

Philippine producers claim this tax would ruin the industry in the Philippines.

Governor General Murphy forwarded from Manila a protest of producers

Meanwhile Rep. Shallenberger of Nebraska, author of the resolution, announced he had received many congratulatory telegrams and letters from throughout the United States, praising his stand for the tax. He said the only protest had come from soap manufacturers, who claimed the tax would increase soap costs.

RAILWAY FIREMAN DIES AT WORK IN LOCOMOTIVE CAB

M COOK, Neb., Jan. 31—(AP)—S. E. Carter, 48, died suddenly late Tuesday afternoon in the cab of a Burlington locomotive he was firing in the yards here. WORKING TOGETHER.

AT THE first of the regional conferences held by conciliation boards in Norfolk Monday, a field representative of the farm credit association outlined the advantages resulting from voluntary agreements between creditors and debtors. He listed these:

1.—Give the farm family renewed hope in its ability to work itself out of a difficult situation.

2.—Keep from adding to the unemployed list.

3.—Put the farm family in a position to become a normal purchaser again.

4.—Pay up back taxes and offer increased assurance of continued future payment.

5.—Bring new money into the county, thus increasing the velocity of local debt payment.

6.—Provides certainty, where before there was only uncertainty.

These are the specific facts to which this paper referred frequently when the controversy over farm moratorium legislation was waging. It urged conciliation, in preference to a rigid, inclastic moratorium act, and it urges conciliation between creditor and debtor now in the belief that such a course is more necessary than it was during the tense months when legislatures were being besieged to restrain creditors from foreclosing against farm homes.

In Nebraska, the moratorium enacted expires a year from next March. What will replace it? Do those who advocated it propose that its provisions shall be continued for another two or another four-year period? In upholding the validity of a similar measure in Minnesota the supreme court justified its position only on the ground that moratorium legislation met an emergency. It did not pass judgment on the constitutionality of such legislation during normal times. It then becomes a question how long an emergency prevails. Conditions are mending slowly but surely. There is less unemployment. There are higher prices for commodities, including many farm products. Should the improvement continue throughout the spring and summer, and into the next fall, would the court say that the emergency which validated the moratorium had passed? It isn't the individual case, or even many individual cases of inability to meet obligations, which creates an emergency. It must be general in its character and unless there are steps toward conciliation between creditor and debtor, there will be far too many instances of the loss of farm homes.

Where there has been no meeting between the creditor and the debtor, the problem of unpaid interest or principal remains unsettled. The farmer has been left undisturbed in the possession of his land and his home, the proceeds from the farm have been applied to taxes, maintenance, and interest, but that in itself does not constitute necessarily full satisfaction of the obligations over these troublesome years, unless the return from the farm has been sufficient or unless the creditor has been willing to accept it in full settlement. So of necessity the debtor and the creditor must meet and must decide what action shall be taken with reference to unpaid interest, and in some cases, unpaid principal.

Prices of grain and more recently, values of livestock, have been advancing. Perhaps the farmers' Gethsemane is over, and another year will see his economic status so much improved that he will be in a position to refinance himself. It is to be hoped that will be the case. But in the recovery program as it affects the agricultural regions, nothing is more important than to replace the uncertainty of debt obligations with definite, certain understanding. It is essential to both parties before they resume normal purchasing power. The progress being made in this direction is encouraging.

BEG PARDON!

AT A district American Legion convention in Emporia, Kas., recently, an enthusiastic booster of Governor Landon milling through the crowd presented the governor to a Legionnaire with this language:

"You remember Harold Sutton of Emporia, don't you, governor?"

"Sure," Landon answered, grasping Sutton's hand.

"What's the name again, please?" Sutton innocently inquired.

Which directs attention to the plight of none other than Queen Mary who was motoring to Cambridge to visit the antique shop when something happened to the engine of the car. Along came Percy Titmous, Esquire, in his trim little car, with his wife seated beside him, and, noting ladies in distress, waved an airy greeting, and launched this:

"I say," said Mr. Titmous, "having trouble?"

It was not until his passengers were seated safely, and he himself was headed for Cambridge with them, that he discovered he was giving the Queen of the British isles a lift.

Thus does circumstance combine to keep the high from becoming exalted.

DRAWING THE LINES.

CONVENIENT memory is a blessing. If Ogden Mills did not smile to himself when he told Kansas republicans that isolation stood as a barrier in the path of business recovery in America, then the young man is lacking sadly in humor. Mr. Mills was a very important figure in two administrations which closed the gates of the United States to foreign trade. It was the Hawley-Smoot tariff law of the Hoover administration which put the finishing touches to the steadily declining volume of American business abroad. And at that time Mr. Mills was one of the outstanding counsellors and advisors at Washington. He was an active participant in the tariff folly which alienated friendly nations and brought swift action of a retaliatory character from such customers as Canada and the Argentine.

But there is this much truth in Mills' criticism. Throughout the campaign tariff blundering was the subject of a withering fire from democratic spokesmen from the president on down. It will be recognized that when Mr. Roosevelt came into office the demoralization at home was so great that the emergency required first attention should be given domestic problems. With banks closed, with people out of work, with business prostrate, immediate requirements demanded the president should devote all of his attention to domestic matters. More recently there has been evidence the president is considering foreign affairs, particularly as trade is affected. Announcement from Washington conveyed the intelligence that consideration is being given the negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements, involving a reduction of tariffs in the instances of nations which show a disposition to go along. And that particular development is certain to receive more and more attention.

One other phase of the Mills' address, regarded by many as the opening gun in the republican campaign for 1936, was significant. Mr. Mills referred to the dictatorial powers seized by the president. It may have a new ring but it is an old cry. It was raised against Woodrow Wilson and was utilized so successfully that ultimately the republican party crucified the war president upon it. The task of tripping up Mr. Roosevelt will be more difficult. He possesses none of that autocratic attitude in his personal relations. He is genial, warm-hearted, and human where Mr. Wilson, matchless leader that he was, was formal, stiff, distant, and awesome. But you may expect to hear more of dictatorships. It is an appealing argument in America, and the slightest mistake, trivial in its character, may prove the turning point. It has been the strategy of the republicans to play a game of watching waiting, hopeful of a break. The break which they desire is an opportunity to raise the ogre of an American dictator in such convincing fashion that the old battle lines of the Wilson era may be restored.

MRS. ANDREW JACKSON.

COMMENTING upon a recently published statement to the effect that Mrs. Roosevelt was the first president's wife to smoke, a paragrapher asks if the writer of the story ever heard of the wife of Andrew Jackson. Doubtless he had, but he had probably also learned that Mrs. Jackson was not the wife of a president, having died after her husband was elected, but before he was inaugurated.

And General Jackson, as well as many other people believed that her death was due to a broken heart. Most people are of course aware of the fact that long years after Jackson was married, it was discovered that contrary to information which they had received, Mrs. Jackson's first husband, who turned out to be a blackguard, had not obtained a divorce from her at the time they were married and that their marriage was therefore illegal. The divorce had been granted later, however, so the couple again went through the marriage ceremony.

Jackson, who was the most devoted of husbands, took every precaution to prevent his wife learning that the affair was a matter of comment, and it was because a certain political enemy had made slighting remarks regarding his wife that the future president involved himself, ostensibly over another matter, in a quarrel with the fellow and killed him.

During the presidential campaign Jackson was accused of having lived in adultery with another man's wife, and a pamphlet was printed regarding the affair and largely circulated. After the election Mrs. Jackson went into a newspaper office to wait for her husband and chanced to pick up one of these pamphlets. She was so shocked and wounded that she became ill and never recovered.

So the wife of Old Hickory never shared White House honors with him, though they had gone along life's pathway together for very many years. She was a devout Christian and the general had built for her a chapel at the Hermitage. Following her death he became greatly softened and was said to have embraced religion himself, though he never succeeded in overcoming a violent temper. The wound which he received in the duel in which he slew the man who had slandered his wife, bothered him as long as he lived.

WHY MAKE THE STATE THE GOAT?

IN APPEALING from the adverse decision by the district court of Lancaster county, which held invalid any appropriation ordered by the legislature from the state school fund to pay tuition for children of United States army and navy officers and enlisted men residing in Lincoln, the board of education may be justified to the extent of protecting whatever legal rights the city school district may have in the matter; but as a broad principle of equity there will be no great shedding of tears hereabouts if the state supreme court should sustain the lower tribunal's action in throwing out the claims filed from Lincoln, Omaha, and several other places under the law mentioned.

Why should the state of Nebraska assume payment of tuition to any school district for children of men in the employ of the United States government, any more than for the salaries of the men themselves?

The act in question was passed merely to please one member of the legislature from a county which happens to have within its borders a considerable settlement of army officers and their families, living near a military post. Its purpose was to relieve the district in a large degree, from the expense of providing school facilities and transfer the burden to taxpayers in other districts of Nebraska who are paying for the school privileges in their own localities.

Manifestly, that is an unjust arrangement. If responsibility exists anywhere for reimbursing the local district, it rests upon the United States government, and not on the state of Nebraska.

Whether there is any such equitable liability may well be questioned. The army officers whose children attend school may not pay local taxes, but their patronage yields a large income to merchants in the community, who would not receive it if these families were living elsewhere; hence, the benefit cancels the disadvantage, from the community's standpoint.

When the legislature is in session at Lincoln, the children of its members are admitted to this city's schools without payment of tuition. This concession is made by the school authorities here in recognition of the fact that the legislators are spending a good deal of money while here and thus helping local business.

PAY FOR HONESTY.

"DOES it pay to be honest?"

Once, such a question would not have been deemed worthy of discussion. After a decade of disillusionment, many sincere people have unfortunately come to feel that there is room for debate. The issue is raised by a mere boy in a current periodical, and at least youth is entitled to an answer.

To this boy might be said that the reward of honesty is in heaven. He might be told that, despite too many contradictory cases he may know, his fellow men will repay him for being honest. He possibly could be reassured that, in business, the cunning and unscrupulous win only temporarily; that the honest businessman is eventually the gainer because of the confidence he inspires in his customers. These and more arguments could be mustered in all sincerity, but they really don't meet the issue.

Young man, you state the issue when you use the word "pay." If you mean legal tender—gold, silver, currency—then the honest road may be a tough one, although not necessarily unconquerable.

If you aspire, boy, to fame, the honest way is as subject to the fickleness of humanity as any other route.

There is only one coin uppon which you may surely count for honesty dividends. That is conscience.

Youth unconsciously looks at power, wealth, glory as its immediate objective. Peace of soul is an idea for declining age, it seems. But to this boy who wants to know whether it "pays" to be honest, we can say that honesty pays richly in the confidence and joy of upright living, at any time of life.

It is worth something to walk the streets with a straight spine, to be able to smile a genuine message of cheer.

But, the question now is, "Is that pay enough for you?"

QUESTION.
Roanoke, Va.

Why do not our business men become candidates for congress as Englishmen do for parliament?

ANSWER.

Because a congressional career in this country is a whole time job while congress is in session, whereas in England it is more of a gentleman's avocation. The British parliament involves no prolonged separation from the social life of great cities nor any such strain upon the energies of its members as our congressmen and and senators experience. For a more complete answer to your question read "The American Political System" by D. W. Brogan. The author has prepared himself for his task by acquiring an exceptional knowledge of our political affairs and their extensive ramifications.

He tells us that Cleveland's victorious slogan, "Public office is a public trust," was not original with him; why there is less outstanding political leadership in America as compared with other democratically governed countries; why the lobbying system is a necessary feature of the present organization of Congress; why it is that political considerations play so large a part in the choice of our judiciary, and why the English type of civil service cannot be introduced here.

I have said enough to whet your appetite for more of this informing book.

QUESTION.
Williamsport, Pa.

Inasmuch as you have been to Europe many times, I wonder whether you can tell me why the people there have such a wrong idea about us and our political and commercial enterprises? Our newspapers and books tell them the facts, yet they talk and write as if they knew next to nothing.

ANSWER.

Can you name any nation which as a whole even begins to understand another thoroughly? I think not. What you have to look for are the minority groups, often few in number, which regard the world at large with appreciative and enlightened intelligence. You complain of Europe's blunderings about us. Allow me to give you a reverse instance.

I recently heard an American say to an Englishman: "Say, how does it come that you fellows are sold on this king business?" He was unaware that John Bull accepts George the Fifth as he does an axiom in mathematics, and quite as readily as we accept our president. To the Englishman such an inquiry sounds humorous, which is perhaps fortunate for all concerned.

Of course, there is always an interplay of good-natured humor around the superficial differences of various peoples. But even in the pages of "Punch," the world's premier journal of humor, peculiarly British and superbly illustrated, you will find what are for Americans surprising limitations of knowledge. As a matter of fact, "The London Spectator" is the best periodical in Europe as an interpreter of our national characteristics and policies.

Other Europeans know us well as for example the Washington correspondent of "The London Times," who, in advising his fellow Britons about their estimates of the United States, says:

"The United States should be considered continentally rather than tionally."

"The United States can be studied with the greatest advantage, not as a federal union of forty-eight states, but as a coalition of eight great economic regions—New England, the middle state, south east, south west, middle west, great plains, mountain states and Pacific states."

"As a result, legislation in the congress of the United States tends irresistibly to take the form of treaties peacefully concluded between the eight regions, which live together in a continental area under the regime of free trade."

The moral of the quotation shows that there are always a chosen few who have not bowed the knee to the Baal of ignorance.

QUESTION.
Washington, D. C.

Do you agree that former President Hoover is in the discord for good?

ANSWER.

Not for a moment. Neither is it your business or mine to so disparage any useful and upright public servant. Take the acissic instance of that grand old statesman Lord Haldane, who was villified and deprived of office at the biddance of a clamorous mob. Yet when Earl Haig returned home from France after the World War to receive the plaudits of the multitude, and the highest honors the British government had to confer, he went in person to Haldane and gave him a copy of his volume of dispatches. That volume bore this inscription: "To Viscount Haldane of Cloan, the greatest Secretary of War England has ever had. In grateful remembrance of his successful efforts in organizing the military forces of a war on the Continent, notwithstanding much opposition from the war council and the halfhearted support of his parliametary friends."

What do those left of the group who hounded Lord Haldane into private life have to say about their despicable behaviour? Nothing, as you may suppose. The instance I have quoted is not extraordinary. In our country every president from Washington to Hoover has been exposed to similar false and scandalous defamation. Mr. Hoover knows more about the European and Asiatic people than any prominent citizen now in public office. He served us to the best of his ability and with conscientious, tireless zeal. I am not one, neither are the majority of my countrymen, who delights to get on the bandwagon and while perched there thumb my nose at some faithful leader who for the time being is in the cold shades of opposition. I advise you to quietly walk around demagogues and blatherskites whose sole stock in trade is abuse and recrimination.

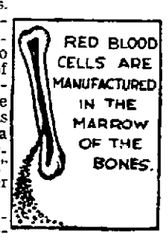

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

WHERE ARE RED BLOOD CELLS MANFACTURED IN BODY?

One department of medicine which has made extremely rapid progress in the last few years is that of diseases of the blood and blood-forming organs.

The spurt in research has probably been due to the discovery of a specific treatment for the most serious form of anemia—so-called "pernicious anemia," now no longer pernicious.

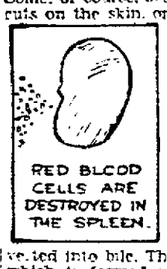

Cells are thrust into blood stream at ratio of several billion a day.

Before outlining these researches, it might be worth while to note briefly the main features of our kiowledge of the physiology of the blood.

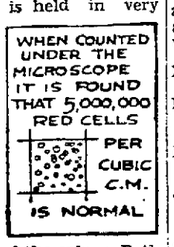

The blood is essentially a fluid in which float a number of cells. The fluid is called the "serum." The cells are of different sorts the most numerous are the red cells, and it is diminution in these cells which we mean when we say "anemia." The other elements are the white cells and platelets which, for the sake of brevity, we will not discuss here.

The life history of a red cell is interesting and important to an understanding of the anemias. The blood is constantly being replenished with red cells and they are constantly being destroyed. The place in the body where the red cells are formed is the bone marrow. And from this bone marrow many billion cells are thrown into the blood stream a day.

The place where the red blood cells are destroyed is the spleen. Some, of course, are lost from small cuts on the skin, or nose bleed, or, in the case of women, the monthly flow, but most of the cells are destroyed in the spleen. After destruction their coloring matter, which is mostly made from iron, is carried to the liver and there very largely converted into bile. The amount of bile which is formed a day is a rough index of the enormous number of red cells which are destroyed.

In health, this progress is very evenly balanced, so that the number of red cells is held in very definite concentration at about five million per ccm. We can see that this balance would be destroyed either by something which would depress the productive activity of the marrow, or increase the destructive activity of the spleen. Both things actually occur.

Pershing in Hospital For Physical Checkup

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 — (AP) — General John J. Pershing is in Walter Reed hospital for his annual physical examination. He entered the hospital Sunday and physicians said he probably would remain until Friday. Physicians said the general is not ill.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THE RUNAWAWY.

I saw him 'neath a tropic sky
And sad he seemed to be.
For the home-door look was in his eye.
But he'd somehow lost the key.

He was tanned as brown as a leather shoe,
As old and as worn and thin.
And he stood on the pier, as wanderers do.
When the home-land ships come in.

He looked at our flag with a wistful eye.
But smiled as we stepped ashore;
There was something weird in his "hello" cry
Which I never had heard before.

Oh! I've heard "hello" in a thousand ways.
But never so tinged with pain
As that greeting sad where the palm tree sways
Down there on the Spanish Main

"I've been going back home," he said to me.
"Going back for years and years.
There's a place up north where I'd like to be.
But never the chance appears.

The ships come in for a time to stay.
But their decks to me are barred.
Oh, it's easy enough to run away.
It's the getting back that's hard!"

Perhaps some day will a vessel stop
For a time at that dusty town
And others may see, as the anchors drop,
A man turned leather brown.

As they get to shore they may hear that cry,
"Hello!" as it came to me
From him with the home-door look in his eye
Who had somehow lost the key

Sometimes, however, a philanthropist is a man who is afraid to die without trying to square himself.

The dog must be almost human. In many homes it substitutes for a child.

Teaching school is a good job. A school doesn't fire you because you won't pet after working hours.

The Roosevelt motto is: "He who has planted it will tend it." So you needn't worry about it.

It is especially hard to forgive another person if you lack the courage to tell him what you think of him.

That newspaper clown who wrote on "prison etiquette" failed to tell us, though, what sort of water should be served with the bread course.

An inferior is anybody who soon becomes overbearing if you are decent to him.

One way to keep your husband or wife almost perfect is to deserve that kind.

New deal officials are hard to understand. They keep saying "We mean business" whether they are trying to scare you or encourage you.

Americanism: Jobless millions enduring without a whine till relief came; prosperous millions whining that the cost of relief will ruin them.

What a world! Only one man can make the millions laugh and forget their troubles, and we use him 15 minutes a week.

It must be a great consolation to the victims of poison liquor to know that it wasn't illegal.

The hardest part in making any good cause succeed is to keep lunatics from trying to help you.

This 35 cent "costume jewelry" isn't new. Jewelers had it in the old days at $18.50.

The manufacturer who is too busy to see newspaper men has one consolation. He won't be that way long.

Progress: Inventing things to overcome jungle enemies; being killed by inventions.

What's the use? Every time science finds a way to prolong life, it discovers a better way to kill people.

A free country is one where they develop a great leader, use his abilities four years and then scrap him.

Correct this sentence: "Dad may own the works," said he, "but I expect to earn promotion as the others do."

Faith and Patience.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 24.

To the editor of the Lincoln Star: I am a visitor in your city and would like to see these lines in your "People's Forum" if you consider them good enough—as I think a lot of our present troubles are due to the woeful lack of Faith and Patience, also appreciation for what is being done for us.

FAITH AND PATIENCE.

In these days of trials and worry
Everywhere is grief and woe.
Have we forgotten there is a friend
To whom we all may go?

Faith the size of a mustard seed
Would a mountain move, you know.
Take your troubles to your Savior
And a pathway he will show.

Spend your leisure hours on study,
Read your Bible thru and thru.
There I'm sure you'll find a message
That was put there just for you.

No matter how much you think "you" suffer,
Look around and you will see
Many others who are suffering
More than either you or me.

Be content where God has placed you
And your burdens cheerfully bear
When to your heavenly home He calls you,
A golden crown of stars you'll wear.

Don't aspire to be a ruler
Perhaps you were born to be a slave.
We are all servants of the Lord.
For our sins His son He gave.

It grieves me to hear about me
Complaints and doubts of "everything."
Our country is not on the brink of ruin.
Prosperity is on the wing.

So have faith and be patient.
Back our president and the NRA
He is leading us out of this depression.
God is showing him the way.

Men Or Dollars?

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 27

To the editor of the Lincoln Star: The republicans deny the right of our government to take the gold in the federal reserve banks without a just compensation fixed by law, otherwise called the right of eminent domain. They would lead me to think that they do not know that it is the government's stamp that gives it is value.

It is quite well known that governments often take your son, your husband, or yourself, and place him in a position to stop bullets and bayonets of other countries without any compensation being fixed by the courts.

The republicans seem determined to prove what W. J. Bryan so often said of them, that the man and the dollar both count with them, but the dollar counts most.

Mrs. Reddy's Mouth Waters

Advice you think that others need
'Tis well that you yourself should heed.

—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox did not feel like hunting. He was hungry but he was too lame and sore from his fight with Whitey the Snowy Owl to go hunting. Mrs. Reddy had helped him lick his wounds. Now that there was no more to be done she prepared to go look for a dinner.

"If I have good luck I'll bring you a bite to eat," said she.

"I won't be disappointed if you don't these hard times. You will be lucky if you get enough for yourself," replied Reddy. "Whatever you do keep away from Whitey the Owl." He grinned feebly.

"I hope I have sense enough for that," retorted Mrs. Reddy.

At the edge of the Old Pasture she hesitated, undecided which way to go. "If that Owl is hunting on the Green Meadow there is no use for me to go there," thought she. "I believe I'll run over to the Big River. I haven't been there for a long time. It is mostly frozen over, but there are one or two places open and sometimes a dead fish or something else that can be eaten can be found there. I am hungry enough to eat anything. The last time I was over there were some Ducks in that open water. What wouldn't I give for a Duck."

She trotted off toward the Big River but not for an instant was she careless or heedless. She hunted every foot of the way. There was always the chance that a Meadow Mouse might be found and she had no intention of missing any such chance if it should offer. So she did not go straight to the Big River but zigzagged this way and that, investiating every bunch of tall dead grass that stood above the snow. She spent some time investigating every possible hiding-place for a Mouse among the young willows along the river bank. She had no luck.

At last she was where she could look across the ice of the Big River to the open place where the water looked black and cold. Almost at once she saw several Ducks swimming there and three sitting on the ice near the edge. Th sight of those Ducks made Mrs. Reddy's mouth water. Yes, sir, it made her mouth water. She had thought she was hungry before, but now it seemed as if she couldn't remember ever having had such an empty stomach.

That open water was quite near shore on the other side, and it was on the ice between the water and the bank of that side that the three Ducks were sitting. Keeping well hidden in the bushes, Mrs. Reddy studied the situation. There was no way of approaching those Ducks

She trotted off toward the Big River, but not for an instant was she careless or heedless from where she was with out being seen. There wasn't even a block of ice to creep behind. The instant she stepped out from the cover in which she lay she would be seen. If only sh were over on the other bank of the Big River it might be different. From this distance she couldn't be sure but it looked as if she might get quite near those Ducks without being seen.

Mrs. Reddy sighed. To get over there she would have to go a long way up the River above a bend so as to cross without being seen by the Ducks. But a Duck would be worth the trouble. Yes, sir, it would be so. She turned, and, keeping back of the bushes along the bank bank trotted swiftly along. She didn't stop to hunt now. She was after something bigger than a Mouse.

When she was above the bend she poked her head out from the bushes and looked carefully this way and that way to make sure that the way was clear. It was. She leaped out and started across on the ice. She fairly flew and for two reasons. One was that she was in a hurry to get across and down to where those Ducks were. The other was that she would be seen at once on that white river by any one who might chance that way.

Once across she turned down along the bank, keeping in among the bushes as much as possible and taking care not to show herself on the side toward the river. At last sch was opposite the open water. Then slowly, with the greatest care, she crept to where she could peep out. Two of the Duck were still on the ice. The others were in the water near by. Mrs. Reddy's mouth began to water again.

LABOR AWAITS ACTION ON PAY

Nebraska Unions Send Resolutions Against Proposed Cuts.

Nebraska labor organizations are awaiting the action of federal authorities on a resolution opposing any reductions in wages on projects under the federal recovery progress and asking that skilled workmen be given additional pay for work on CWA projects where they were paid only on a semi-skilled basis.

The organizations forwarded the resolution to Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins, Secretary of Labor Perkins, Joseph B. Keenan of the department of justice, Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the national recovery administration and others. Copies also went to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and numerous congressmen.

Fort Robinson Work Awarded $12,000 of CWA Material Funds

Operations at Fort Robinson, where a large project of ground improvement and housing development is being carried out by the federal government under a special CWA allotment from Washington, will absorb $12,000 of the $100,000 quota for expenditure of materials in Nebraska this week, as authorized by National Administrator Hopkins.

Other amounts fixed for expenditure out of the $100,000 are: Team and truck hire, $5,000; highway materials, $4,958; Scottsbluff national monument, $960; court house repairs at Madison, $129; landing field at Norfolk, $40; miscellaneous improvements at Pawnee City, $62.

A new request from Omaha city officials for $17,000 to buy materials for street repair, parks, and jail projects has been held up until Federal Agent Rowland Haynes returns from Washington, where he went last week to confer with the national administrator and other CWA officials.

Plans Already Under Way at Warm Springs To Utilize New Fund

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 31—(AP)—President Roosevelt's humanitarian movement — The Warm Springs foundation—is ready to expand its work of restoring crippled children to useful citizens.

Plans already are in the making for using funds raised last night at some 6,000 balls held in honor of the president's fifty-second birthday.

All of this money is to be spent in bringing sufferers from the after effects of infantile paralysis here for treatment in larger numbers than ever before and increasing facilities to accommodate them.

There were two parties at Warm Springs last night, one at the foundation with a dinner, entertainment and speeches lauding the president and another in the casino for dancing.

Americanism: Kicking about the cost of the army and navy indifferently enduring brazen crime that costs over ten times as much.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves Big Dollars! No Cooking!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BEAUTY and PROGRESS
by GENERAL MOTORS

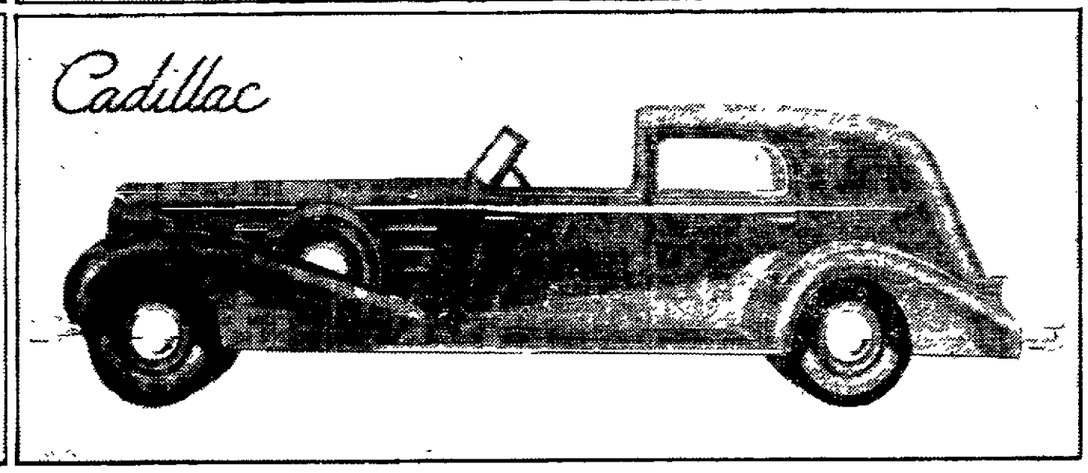

WHAT DO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE THINK IS BEAUTIFUL? The comments that you made at the Automobile Show were caught by eager ears listening for every murmur of criticism or praise.

We KNOW what today's Americans are saying of beauty in automobiles. They say:

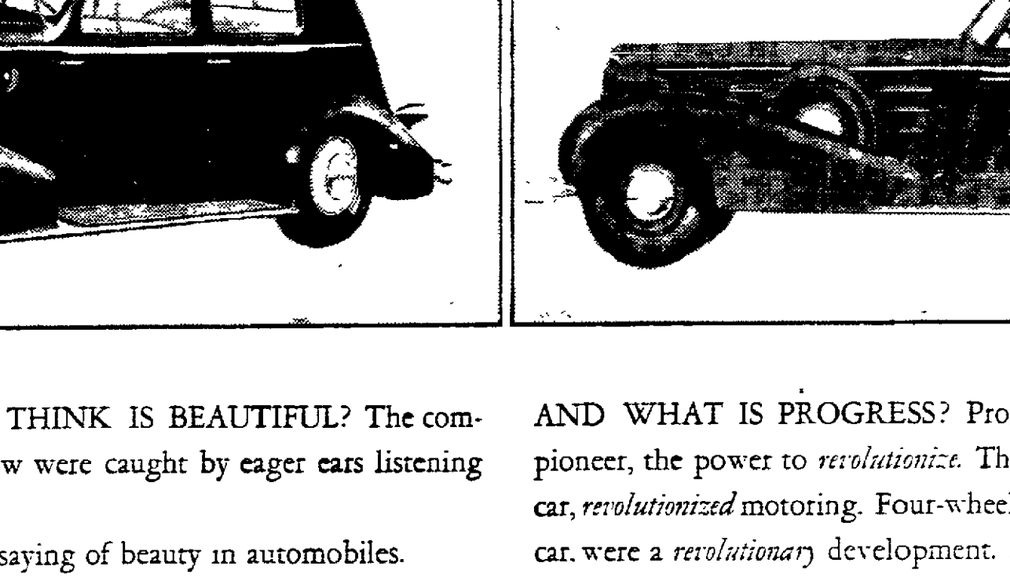

"We want our cars to have beauty which satisfies, not showiness that startles. We want them to have the beauty that one can live with and grow daily more contented with. We want them not to astonish but to be admired."

The 1934 General Motors cars have a consistent beauty that extends through the entire line. They have not only the beauty of appearance but the beauty of performance—the beauty which is embedded in the old-time truth: Beauty is as beauty does."

AND WHAT IS PROGRESS? Progress connotes the strength and daring of the pioneer, the power to revolutionize. The self-starter, introduced on a General Motors car, revolutionized motoring. Four-wheel brakes, sponsored by another General Motors car, were a revolutionary development. So was Ethyl Gasoline, setting a new standard in motor fuel and making higher compression engines possible. Fisher No Draft Ventilation, a feature of all General Motors cars in 1933, was again revolutionary.

And this year KNEE-ACTION WHEELS! Pioneered by General Motors, proved through three years of gruelling experiment and test. KNEE-ACTION WHEELS have been the feature of the 1934 show. They abolish jar and jounce, the ride becomes a glide.

There will always be motoring progress. The General Motors Engineers, Research and Proving Ground assure that.

An interesting booklet is available describing in more detail the fundamental principle of this new independent front-wheel spring suspension. Simply address General Motors Corporation, New York or Detroit.

Vines Widens Gap In His Duels With 'Big Bill'

'Elly' Takes 8-4 Lead Over "Old Master" In Cross Country Tour

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 31 — (AP) — Playing before 2,000 fans in his home town, Ellsworth Vines last night defeated William T. Tilden for the eighth time in 12 matches of their professional tennis tour. The scores were 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

Breaks Tilden's Service.

Tilden, starting slowly, was in good form by the second set, displaying a beautiful forehand stroke that conquered Vines. The third set was a wild affair. Vines won when he broke Tilden's terrific delivery to take the eleventh game and then smashed the ball across the net on his own service to blast Big Bill off the court.

Tilden Also Loses Doubles.

After defeating Tilden in the singles, Vines paired with Vincent Richards to win over Tilden and Bruce Barnes, 6-2, 6-4, in doubles.

Tilden, apparently still tired physically from his long match with Vines in Los Angeles, which lasted until after midnight Monday night, gave the Pasadena youth little competition in the first set. Vines won the first four games before the older player broke in at all.

Vines led off in the second set at 2-0, but Tilden's power and Vines' errors gave the veteran the set.

The victory was Vines' fifth consecutive on this tour.

They play at Long Beach tonight and leave for Kansas City Thursday morning, playing there Saturday night and at Lincoln, Neb., Monday night.

STAGG "OKAYS" GRIDIRON RULES

'Grand Old Man' Content With Present Status In Football.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(INS)—In the opinion of Coach A. A. Stagg, the "grand old man of football," there will be but few changes in the gridiron rules this year.

Stagg, former University of Chicago mentor and now coach at the College of the Pacific, is en route to Atlanta, Ga., to attend the annual meeting of the football rules committee.

"A few changes in the rules will be made, but nothing radical, however," he said.

Pacific coast football is no better than that in the Western conference, the veteran declared.

"On the west coast they think their competition is the greatest anywhere," he commented, "but I don't subscribe to that. I lived in this conference too long. The Big Ten play is as good as the best on the coast."

Coaches To Discuss Rules.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(INS)—The football rules are slated to be debated when the football coaches' rules committee meets here next Saturday, but, according to Lou Little, Columbia university coach and chairman of the committee, radical changes are not likely to be countenanced, although they may be suggested.

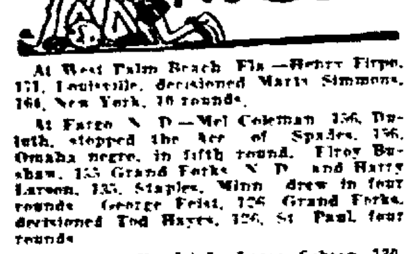

Among the suggested changes are: 1—Permit forward passing from anywhere behind the scrimmage line. 2—Return the goal posts to the goal line. 3—Abolish the dead ball rule. 4—Increase the sideline zone from 10 to 15 yards. 5—Abolish the fumble rule barring a defensive player from running with a fumble. 6—Permit a team on windy days to surrender the ball 25 yards down the field, instead of punting, provided it is within its own 20-yard line. 7—Allow a forward pass in the end zone to be ruled an incompleted pass instead of a touchback except on fourth down.

Cathedral Quint At Ashland Friday

Father Obrist's Cathedral high cagers will be striving to maintain their torrid clip through basketball circles this week-end, being booked for two engagements. The Bluebirds light out for Ashland to play the Saunders county pace setters Friday night and return for a tilt with Gretna on the Y. M. C. A. boards Saturday.

Despite a spotty early season showing, in the process of which Cathedral dropped five Greater Lincoln conflicts, the Blue and White quintet has been flying along on all five cylinders in recent games and appear now to have hit an unbeatable stride. Cathedral goal marksmen were hitting the net with sensational regularity at Grand Island last Friday, when they conquered St. Mary's, 43-19. The following night, the local clan doubled the score on Bethany 27-12, on the suburban floor, to ring up their first victory within the league circuit.

Ashland, the Bluebirds' host Friday, has known both success and failure in warfare with capital city loop teams. Ashland cracked down on Bethany a couple of weeks ago in convincing fashion, but was repelled last week in an upset administered by Havelock, 25-21.

At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Henry Firpo, 171, Louisville, decisioned Maxie Simmons, 166, New York, 10 rounds.

At Fargo, N. D.—Mel Coleman, 156, Duluth, stopped the Ace of Spades, 156, Omaha negro, in fifth round. Elroy Bushaw, 153, Grand Forks, N. D., and Harry Larsen, 153, Staples, Minn., drew in four rounds. George Feist, 126, Grand Forks, decisioned Ted Hayes, 126, St. Paul, four rounds.

At Grantsville, Utah—Leroy Gibson, 130, Terre Haute, Ind., knocked out Ray Kiser, 140, Burmeister, Utah, in fifth round.

At San Antonio, Tex.—Cecilio Lozado, 138, Mexico, decisioned Wedgel, Mexico, 138, Mexico, 10 rounds.

At Seattle—Cecil Payne, 158, Louisville, Ky., decisioned Henry Woods, 156½, Yakima, Wash., negro, 10 rounds.

BENNY FRIEDMAN, next to Red Grange the best publicized of all the professional footballers, announces he has had his fill of the pro game and will accept a post at the College of the City of New York, doing double duty as "prof" in a classroom and head coach of the gridiron squad.

His salary, being slightly less than $7,000, isn't to be sneezed at, and it is a good gamble that his new job will compensate him twice as much, perhaps more, than he was dragging down as a member of the Brooklyn club of the National Professional league.

Benny is one of the boys who is getting out of pro circles when the getting is good. After three or four seasons of pro football, he recognizes that the business of playing football for a weekly pay-check has no future worthy of his consideration, so he will step into a coaching job and rate himself as lucky to get out of his recent racket.

IN ADDITION to Friedman, the pros also will lose their best drawing card, meaning Mr. Grange, the original "Galloping Ghost." The Illinois red-top has been fooling around with the pros during something like 10 years, building up a comfortable roll on two or three occasions, only to fritter it away on an unfortunate investment.

But Grange evidently has been salting his rocks to good advantage recently, as he has purchased an interest in a Chicago night club and will act as master of ceremonies and otherwise devote himself to entertaining the guests.

That the red-head's latest venture will reap him the harvest he anticipates is questionable, but not so in the case of Friedman. Benny's $6,700 per is good money in any vocation and, if you ask me, Mr. Grange would jump out of his shoes if the chance were presented to grab as good a berth as the one Benny Friedman is inheriting.

THE reorganized Western baseball association, for which Dale Gear has been prexying the past few years while serving the Western league in a similar capacity, evidently has no desire to continue its relations with the Topeka gent.

About the first step the W. A. took in connection with reorganizing was to pry Mr. Gear loose from the presidency, after which the club owners elected Tom Fairweather of Des Moines as chief executive.

Getting together in a league meeting the other day, the owners were confronted by a claim presented by ex-President Gear, who served notice that he had an even thousand smackers due him for services rendered.

President Fairweather, not wishing to be a party to making trouble for his league, offered to retire in Gear's favor, but the moguls would have nothing to do with the proposal. They voted unanimously in favor of keeping Tom on his new job and, at the same time, took steps to resist the Gear claim in the courts of organized ball.

JIM CORBETT'S friends — he had them everywhere throughout the nation—will be pleased to know that reports he died almost penniless, leaving his widow only a paltry sum, were without foundation in fact.

A statement by Mrs. Corbett, given to the press, explains that Gentlemen Jim's estate included a fat roll of bank notes, plus a comfortable home and an apartment house, which gives assurance she will have a substantial income the remainder of her life.

Jim's estate, estimated now in six figures, gives him a rating as one of the very few fighting men who accumulated enough to spend his last years in ease.

JIM CORBETT'S savings did not come from his earnings in resined rings. The truth of the matter is that, while the money flowed in freely during his five-year reign as world champion (1892 to 1897), the accumulation of Jim's fortune did not have its beginning until he took to the stage.

My authority for that statement was none other than Jim Corbett himself, as he imparted the information during one of his theatrical appearances in Lincoln some 25 years ago.

"I never put away a red cent of the money I made in the ring," Corbett told me. "I made plenty of it, but it was come easy, go easy while I was fighting. Not until I took to the stage did the hard sense enter my head that putting something away is the only game worth while.

"It is my hope that after I have passed on it never will be said of Jim Corbett it was necessary to put on a benefit boxing show to keep me out of the poorhouse."

JIM CORBETT'S hope, it seems, was realized and I wish it were possible to shake hands across the River Styx and congratulate him on his achievement in providing both for himself in his last years and his widow after he had crossed over to Valhalla, the palace where rest the spirits of our immortal heroes.

As a fighting man, Jim Corbett's place in fistic history is unique. None can dispute his ranking as the all-time king of the scientific boxers. In the world of make-believe, the stage, he won his way into the hearts of theater-goers with astonishing success. As an after-dinner speaker, few, indeed, were in his class. As a companion and friend, Jim was at his best.

Jim Corbett's few appearances in Lincoln found him treading the boards at the Oliver theater, managed for years by Former Frank C. Zehrung. Just above my desk, hangs a photo of "Gentleman Jim," first presented to Mr. and Mrs. Zehrung and years later passed on by them to the writer of this column. That photo, I am pleased to say, is one of my treasures. It will keep aflame the fires of a pleasing memory.

Orders Rolling In For Vines-Tilden

The wide-spread interest shown in the Bill Tilden-Ellsworth Vines tennis match at the coliseum, Monday, Feb. 5, is reflected in the early ticket orders received by John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska.

Among the orders received Wednesday were requests for tickets from racquet fans at Belleville, Kas., and Cambridge. Hastings also has ordered a block of ducats to the all-star tennis exhibition.

IOWA PROVOKES IRE OF TROJANS

Hawkeye Heads Accused by U.S.C. of Bearing False Witness.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(INS)—The University of Southern California today demanded from the University of Iowa a complete denial that two Iowa freshman athletes, Wayne Froning and Duane Swanson, had been "lured" here, as charged by Basketball Coach Williams of Iowa.

Southern California authorities later were advised by telegram that Iowa believed U. S. C. had acted in "good faith."

Froning and Swanson said they were dissatisfied at Iowa and wanted to enroll here. They denied that any inducements had been offered them.

Prof. Hugh C. Willett of the University of Southern California last night telegraphed as follows to C. M. Updegraf, Iowa's chairman of the board of athletic control:

Accused of Evasion.

"Your telegram evades and befogs the issue. The good faith of Southern California is not involved, but the good faith and sportsmanship of Iowa.

"Either you have or you do not have evidence to back Williams' statement, 'We know these boys have been contacted for you,' and Lauer's statement, 'We have what is reliable information that two men left following inducements made in person by member of your staff.'

"My letter requested the evidence or your frank and public disavowal of above statements made by Williams and Lauer and other statements of like kind attributed to them."

North Platte's Quint At Fremont Thursday

Nebraska prep followers will have an opportunity to size up Southwest Nebraska league basketball in comparison with the eastern variety when North Platte high meets Fremont Thursday night on Dodge county maples.

North Platte swings east with a lone defeat on its books, the single reverse being sustained in a warm battle on the Sidney court. Sidney, at the present moment, is one of the few undefeated teams in the state.

The Thursday card in Nebraska Prep circles also carries Falls City to Peru Prep and Schuyler to Pierce.

DECLINED OFFER TO MANAGE REDS

'Chick' Hafey Content To Hold Down His Job In Garden.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 31—(INS)—Chick Hafey, star outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, admitted today he had turned down the manager's job of the Reds because "it's too long a walk from the outfield to the bench."

Hafey gave his reason without a smile, and then explained:

"A playing outfielder is at a distinct disadvantage managing a ball club. He is too far away from the actual play and in order to become a party of the play and to properly direct it, he must travel back and forth from the outfield to the mound constantly.

"That will take a lot out of any ball player and while he might still be a success as a manager, as a player, he is bound to suffer."

Hafey revealed that he turned down the offer of Larry McPhail, new head of the Reds, when McPhail recently made a special trip here to offer him the management of the team.

TIGERS AT NORMAN IN PAIR OF GAMES

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 31— The Saturday night game between Oklahoma and Missouri will count in the official Big Six standings and not the Friday night contest, according to announcement by Athletic Director Ben G. Owen. The Friday night meeting will be an exhibition game.

Big Six Adds 880 Relay to Program

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 31—The 880-yard relay will be an added attraction when the Big Six conference track and field championships are held at Memorial stadium in Lincoln next May.

Big Six coaches voted to add the event to the outdoor book, but declined to add the two-mile relay to the indoor card. The mentors also turned thumbs down on proposals to change the indoor and outdoor scoring method.

WINTER SPORTS ON HUSKER BOOK

Track, Swimming, Mat Meets Lined Up For Nebraska U.

A winter sports program more ambitious than that attempted in 1933 was announced Wednesday by Athletic Director Dana X. Bible of the University of Nebraska. A majority of the meets are with Kansas State and Iowa State on a home-and-home basis.

Coach Henry F. Schulte's Cornhusker tracksters will prep for the Big Six conference indoor meet at Missouri by entertaining Kansas and Kansas State at Memorial stadium. The Kansas meet is tentatively booked for Feb. 17, while the tentative date with Kansas State is Feb. 24. The wrestling card also will include home-and-home meets with Kansas, dates to be arranged. The schedules:

Swimming—Feb. 10, Kansas State at Lincoln; 16—Iowa State at Ames; March 3—Grinnell at Lincoln, 10—Big Six conference meet at Lincoln.

Wrestling—Feb. 12—Cornell college at Mt Vernon; 13—Iowa State at Ames, 26—Kansas State at Lincoln, March 2-3—Big Six meet at Columbia, Mo.

Golfers Flock to Caliente Classic

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 31—(INS)—The big parade of winter golf moved into Mexico today. The annual Agua Caliente open tournament, carrying a purse of $7,500 and drawing a field of nearly 200 of the finest golfers of east and west, was to start today. First prize is $1,500.

In this first round tournament officials, headed by W. C. Fields, the chairman of the tournament committee set a precedent in pairing amateurs with amateurs and professionals with professionals. The mixing will come after the amateurs have proved themselves.

First of the "gallery threesomes" scheduled to get away today was that composed of Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., last year's winner; Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot master; and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., who tied Denny Shute of Philadelphia for first place in the British open championship last spring.

Big Shot Threesome.

These three were to be followed by the "big shot" threesome Denny Shute paired with Leo Diegel, Philadelphia, outstanding attraction in Mexico, and Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va.

Another feature pairing this morning found the Carnoustie master, Macdonald Smith, paired up with Horton Smith, Chicago, and Doughty little Al Espinosa of Akron, Ohio.

In a practice round yesterday, Harold McSpadden of Kansas City scored 68, three under par. Ky Laffoon of Denver had a 69.

GENE BOWLED OVER BY GIRL GOLFERS

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 31—(INS)—Gene Sarazen knows today what it is to overmatch himself. The former American and British open champion tried to concede six strokes and play the best ball by Maureen Orcutt and Helen Hicks, and wound up behind the eight ball. Gene shot a 73, but the gals came in with a 75 and won, two up and one to play.

COLORADO CAGERS IN CAR SMASH-UP

BOULDER, Colo., Jan. 31—(INS)—Six members of the University of Colorado basketball squad were treated today for injuries received in an automobile accident. The car in which they were returning from Laramie, Wyo., last night crashed into two automobiles which had stopped on the highway near Fort Collins. Don Kennedy, student manager, suffered a possible skull fracture and loss of several teeth.

THREE STARS LOST TO PRISON ELEVEN

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 31—(INS)—John Law, who is the appropriately named coach of the Sing Sing prison football team, today moaned the loss of three stars for spring practice.

Two great backs graduate via the parole route and a stellar guard, who left class hurriedly one night, was recaptured at Tarrytown, and so was declared ineligible for further varsity competition by Warden (Dean) Lawes.

LASKY SLATED TO FIGHT AUSTRALIAN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(INS)—Art Lasky, man mauler from Minneapolis, Minn., who has established himself as a contender for heavyweight honors by a spectacular string of victories in Los Angeles and Hollywood, today was signed to meet Johnny Freeman, Australian heavyweight champion, in a scheduled 10-round bout at the Olympic club next Tuesday night. Two weeks later, Lasky will meet Bennie Miller, of Los Angeles.

MIDLAND RINGS UP STRING OF THREE

FREMONT, Neb., Jan. 31—Midland college made it three straight in the N. C. A. C. basketball race last night by walloping York college, 46-20. Midland always was ahead, leading 28-9 at the half.

RECORD FALLS IN TEN-PINS SPORT

Liberty Life Five Pounds Maples for Series Score of 3,235.

President Ira Crook of the Liberty Life Insurance Co. entertained the quintet's first place standing in dinner Tuesday night in honor of the quint's first place standing in the Greater Lincoln league.

Following the dinner, the Liberty Life team stepped on the Lincoln alleys and rolled 3,235, the highest five man performance ever recorded in the city competition. Score:

Rules Committee To Study Local Games

The national basketball rules committee will receive data collected during the Havelock reserves-Lincoln reserves game to be played at Irving junior high Friday evening at 6.45. The game is preliminary to the Lincoln-Omaha Tech game, booked for 8 o'clock.

The rules committee is anxious to study a comparison of games played by the same teams on different sized courts. Accordingly, the Havelock and Lincoln seconds will meet at Irving Junior and later at Havelock high. Among the data collected will be number of fouls, type of fouls, out-of-bounds and goal attempts.

HONORS PILE UP ON HUSKERS' ACE

Fullback Sauer Lands On First Team Selected By Players.

George Henry Sauer, University of Nebraska fullback, had another all-America selection to add to his, Wednesday. Sauer was named on the Liberty Magazine's All-Players, All-America lineup, following the completion of the tabulation of votes from 1,508 players on the squads of 91 leading colleges teams. The first team:

Ends—Skladany, Pittsburgh, and Geisler, Centenary; tackles—Wisert, Michigan; Dempsey, Bucknell; guards— Schammel, Iowa, and Rosenberg, Southern California; center—Bernard, Michigan.

Quarter — Warburton, Southern California; halfbacks—Lund, Minnesota, and Feathers, Tennessee; fullback, Sauer, Nebraska.

Four Get Honorable Mention.

The honorable mention list included Harris, Oklahoma, at end; O'Brien, Nebraska; Gentry, Oklahoma; Mehringer, Kansas, at tackles; DeBus, Nebraska; Bashara, Oklahoma, at guards; Meier, Nebraska, at center; Dunlap, Oklahoma; Masterson, Nebraska, at halfbacks.

Liberty also picked an all-Missouri Valley team which included Harris, Oklahoma, and Kilbourne, Nebraska, ends; O'Brien, Nebraska, and Gentry, Oklahoma, tackles; Bashara, Oklahoma, and List, Oklahoma Aggies, guards; Meier, Nebraska, center; Dunlap, Oklahoma, quarter; Masterson, Nebraska, and Graham, Kansas State, halfbacks; Sauer, Nebraska, fullback.

Londos, Saveldi Mix On Windy City Mat

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(INS)—Jim Londos, persistent claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, tonight will meet "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, the former Notre Dame football player, here in a one-fall return match.

Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, declared that the match will go to a decision in any event. Two referees have been appointed, to act as judges, besides the referee who will act in the ring.

In a previous meeting here, Savoldi was proclaimed the winner, a decision that brought loud wails from the customers.

Fifteen thousand persons are expected to view tonight's tussle at the stadium.

Davey Grain Cagemen In Sunday Home Game

The Dvaey Grain basketball team of Malcolm will play Seward at Malcolm next Sunday. A previous announcement that the game would be played at Seward was erroneous.

Ping Pong Results.

Lawlor Sports and Magees continued their winning ways in the Capital City Ping Pong league Tuesday evening. Lawlors beat Meeks, 6-1, and Magees won from Senates, 6-1. Contractors defeated Newspapers, 5-2.

League Basketball.

CHURCH LEAGUE

One-sided games featured Tuesday night's play in class B of the church league at Plymouth, three of the four games being won by a margin of two to one or better. Second Baptist piled up a 39-9 count on Calvary Evangelical and Warren won the First Lutheran 22-9. Epworth downed Grace Lutheran 14-7 and Trinity was ahead of Second Presbyterian, 30-29 in the evening's thriller.

Tonight's games in class A of the church league find Union meeting St. Marks in the feature attraction of the evening. The games will be played at the Jackson high gym. Schedule:

7:15—Epworth M. E. vs. Westminster. 8:00—Havelock M. E. vs. [illegible]. 8:45—K. Z. A. vs. First Evangelical. 9:30—Union vs. St. Marks. Warren M. E. drew a bye.

[illegible] Nebraska Power, 52-12, while Master Painters [illegible] Emwood, 26-19, and Dan's Coffee Shop trounced Miller & Paine, 23-16.

BROWNEMEN GET READY FOR K-AGS

Nebraska Cagers Tuning Up for Basket Bout Saturday Night.

Cornhusker basketeers are leaving no stones unturned this week in their efforts to prepare for the Saturday night game with Kansas State at the coliseum. The Kaggies and Cornhuskers battled through an extra period at Manhattan earlier in the season and the Scarlet is anxious to avenge that defeat.

Coach W. H. Browne is drilling two sophomores, Harvey Widman of Mead and Harry Sorensen of Hardy for the center post left vacant by the departure of Leland Copple. Browne indicated Wednesday that Sorensen will start at center, with Kenneth Lunney and Hubert Boswell at forwards and Widman and Bud Parsons at guards.

If Widman is moved to center, Paul Mason, veteran guard, will be inserted at the open guard position.

Robsonmen Ready Play Plattsmouth

College View's defending Greater Lincoln league championship basketball team, which has been unable to click in accordance with early season expectations, has a chance Friday to redeem a disappointing record outside the loop by upsetting a powerful Plattsmouth five. The Robins, still smarting from defeats inflicted by Dewitt and Waverly, meet the Platters on the enemy court in their third out-state bill.

Although the Greater Lincoln race has narrowed itself down to a dog fight between Jackson and College View with the young Methodists controlling the situation at present, the southsiders have found the sledding against out-city aggregations extremely precipitous. Dewitt was the first outfit to cut into the previously unscathed archives when they triumphed in the waning seconds, 30-28. Then, to end the halfway mark on the slate, Waverly pulled the unexpected and buried the Viewmen under a 36-23 count.

Friday for the first time this year the Lincoln quint will enter a game labeled as underdogs. Plattsmouth is sporting an impressive record, which numbers among its victims Omaha South. It will mark the second time during the school term the Robsons have collided with Plattsmouth, College View's footballers having thrashed the river eleven, 12-0, early in October.

STATE HI TOURNEY BOOKS CLOSE FEB. 1

Entry books on the 1934 Nebraska high school basketball championships will close Thursday, Feb. 1, with the prospect that around 440 schools will be on the roster.

The entry sheet showed 434 entries Wednesday with the addition of Filley, Kennard, Wiggle Creek of Loup City and Yutan to the class B group.

Nebraska "B" Takes On Luther College

The University of Nebraska "B" basketball team will meet Luther college of Wahoo at the College of Agriculture gymnasium Saturday at 4 p. m., instead of Friday night, as previously scheduled.

FORESEES NEW RECORD IN MILE

Bill Hargiss of Kansas Expects Cunningham Run In 4:04.

BY ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—The high-pressure adoption of the international metric system for track sports by the Amateur Athletic Union has failed to budge tradition or alter the fact that the mile is the standard by which the success of the 1934 indoor footracing season will be measured.

The headline features of the campaign, the chief box-office attractions for the big eastern meets, are the mile races in which such runners as Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, Bill Bonthron of Princeton and Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania are entered.

The question agitating track followers is not what any of these stars can do for the 1,500 meters, but what the chances are of cracking Venzke's indoor world record of 4:10 for the mile or of surpassing Jack Lovelock's new outdoor mark of 4:07.6 for the classic distance.

Hargiss Predicts 4:04.

The "four-minute mile" likely will prove to be a mirage, but so competent an expert as Bill Hargiss, Cunningham's coach, thinks the stocky Kansas runner can do 4.04 and Lawson Robertson of Pennsylvania believes 4:06 is likely under proper conditions.

With at least three potential record-crackers turned loose on the boards, in addition to such capable foot-racers as Glen Dawson of Oklahoma and Joe Mangan of Cornell, this speculation may prove to be far from just an academic discussion before the season is over. Two miles in less than nine minutes was supposed to be impossible until Paavo Nurmi came along to reel off the distance in 8:58.2 on the old Madison Square Garden track in 1925.

Venzke Has Advantage.

Venzke has the benefit of one indoor mile race under his belt by way of preliminary to renewing his rivalry this Saturday night with Cunningham in the Wanamaker mile, featuring the Millrose A. A. games on the Garden track. Cunningham beat the Penn flier in this event last winter in 4:13. He will be favored to repeat, but likely will have to move at a faster clip to do so. Venzke is now considered to be closer to his record breaking 1932 form than at any time since then and capable of doing at least 4:12 for the mile.

Cunningham is due to monopolize the Hunter mile at the Boston A. A. games, Feb. 10, and meet Venzke again as well as Bonthron in the Baxter mile on the New York A. C. program Feb. 17. This is the event for which the railbirds are most eagerly waiting with Cunningham for the first time matching strides with Bonthron, the Detroit boy who chased Lovelock to the tape in their memorable record mile at Princeton last July.

Ross, McLarnin Dated Clash in Glove Brawl in Gotham Fist Arena

BY HYPE IGOE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(INS)—The fistic pot boiled over today and spilled some tasty broth into the laps of the fight fans. To-wit: The New York boxing commission gave its official blessing to a world's welterweight title bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross, said bout to be held here May 23.

Schmeling-Baer Bout Off.

Negotiations for a California fight between Max Schmeling and Max Baer were definitely called off and Schmeling announced he had accepted an offer of $40,000 to fight Paulino Uzcudun in Spain April 8.

Tonight Freddie Miller lays his N. B. A. featherweight title on the line here in a match with Frankie Covelli. The title seems safe enough.

And Louis Soresi, one of Primo Carnera's stable of managers, docks today from Italy bearing in tow Vittorio Tamagnini, Italian featherweight champion.

Representatives of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund for Babies got the official okay on the welter title fight. Madison Square Garden also is angling for this one, but the Milk Fund has the inside track. Estimates of the gate run as high as $300,000.

Schmeling became convinced yesterday that Baer doesn't intend to meet him again in the near future, so he decided to go back to Europe after his fight with Steve Hamas in Philadelphia next month.

German Back To Europe.

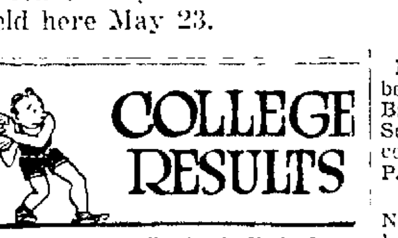

NEW YORK, Jan 31—(AP)—For the time being at least, the proposed return "Battle of the Maxes," Baer vs. Schmeling, seemed today to have been written off the books.

Lou Daro, California promoter, recently opened negotiations for a Baer-Schmeling match at Los Angeles in March and Schmeling was reported to have accepted terms.

Now, however, Joe Jacobs, the German's manager, says Schmeling will leave for Europe shortly after his bout with Steve Hamas at Philadelphia Feb. 13, to meet Paulino Uzcudun at Barcelona April 8.

Jacobs announced he had accepted terms for the bout with Paulino, whom Schmeling decisively defeated at the Yankee stadium in 1929.

"We are getting 275,000 pesetas for the Paulino fight," said Joe. "I had that translated into dollars and it equals $40,000 in our money."

WILLAMAN OUT AT OHIO STATE

Surrenders Reins as Top Man of Buckeye Uni. Coaching Staff.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31—(AP)—Sam Willaman, director of football at Ohio State university for the last five years, today tendered his resignation to Clarence Laylin, chairman of the board of athletic control.

SAM WILLAMAN

No announcement was made as to Willaman's future plans, although it is believed he has already signed a contract with Western Reserve University of Cleveland.

L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, had no comment to make on Willaman's resignation. Nor did he have anything to say as to a possible successor to Willaman.

"The athletic board has given this little thought," said St. John.

Lands at Western Reserve.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31—(INS)—Sam Willaman, who resigned as Ohio State university football coach today, was formally appointed head coach at Western Reserve university this morning.

Details of the offer were withheld, but reports were that Willaman will receive $10,000 a year for three years, but must pay his assistant coaches from his own salary.

Willaman, a center of agitation over Ohio State football policies since the Buckeyes failed to defeat Michigan last fall, succeeds Tom Keady at Western Reserve.

ROKEBY PILES UP POINTS ON DENTON

Rokeby high defeated Denton, 36-13, on the Rokeby court Tuesday night. Rokeby was in front, 19-7, at the half. Schrader, Rokeby center, led the scoring with 21 points. Rokeby reserves won the preliminary, 21-12. First team score:

HUSKER TANKERS WIN FIRST MEET

Nebraska Starts Season With Victory Over Minnesotans.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

University of Nebraska swimmers were away to a winning start this week, following their 43-41 victory over the crack Gustavus Adolphus squad of St. Peter, Minn., in the opening meet Tuesday afternoon at the coliseum pool. The Cornhuskers took the lead by capturing the free style medley and never were headed, although the Minnesota Swedes, due largely to the Gabrielsen brothers, always were close behind.

Bernie Masterson, Harry Kuklin and Dan Easterday chalked up the first places which enabled Nebraska to win. Big Bernie equalled the Big Six record of 25 9-10 seconds as he won the 50-yard free style in a thrilling finish with M. Gabrielsen, Minnesota conference record-holder at the short distance.

Kuklin Wins Diving Event.

Harry Kuklin surprised by defeating Helvig, Gustavus Adolphus' crack diver. Kuklin, former Lincoln high athlete and two-time Nebraska prep diving champion, had a three-point margin over the Minnesota champion in the final compilation.

Kuklin's first place, along with the four points garnered by Lynde and Easterday in the 220-yard free style, sewed up the meet for the Cornhuskers. Easterday had too much steam for the field in the 440-yard free style, the Nebraska marathoner winning the distance grind in easy fashion.

M. Gabrielsen, who finish second to Masterson in the 50-yard event, clipped two seconds from the Big Six record for the 220-yard free style when he was clocked in 2 minutes 39 seconds. The next Cornhusker swimming meet is with Kansas State at the Coliseum, Saturday, Feb. 10.

Summary of Meet.

200-yard free style relay—Won by Nebraska (Easterday, Lynde, Rimmerman, Masterson). Time, 1 minute 47 2-10 seconds.

200-yard breast stroke—Won by G. Gabrielsen (GA); second, Gibbons; third, Ga[illegible] (N). Time, 2 minutes 54 4-10 seconds.

150-yard back stroke—Won by S. Gabrielsen (GA); second, Church (N); third, K[illegible] (N). Time, 1 minute 58 seconds.

50-yard free style—Won by Masterson (N); second, M. Gabrielsen (GA); third, Rimmerman (N). Time, 25 9-10 seconds.

440-yard free style—Won by Easterday (N); second, Johansen (GA); third, Schoneger (N). Time, 6 minutes 23 5-10 seconds.

[illegible] free style—Won by S. Gabrielsen (G); second, Lynde (N); third, B. Gabrielsen (GA). Time, [illegible] seconds.

Fancy diving—Won by Kuklin (N); second, Helvig (GA); third, B. Gabrielsen (GA). Points, 103.2.

[illegible] relay—Won by Gustavus Adolphus [illegible] Time, 3 minutes 21 8-10 seconds.

220-yard free style—Won by M. Gabrielsen (GA); second, Lynde (N); third, Easterday (N). Time, 2 minutes 39 seconds.

Says Federal Laws Make Operation High

Official Nebraska City Power Company Claims NRA and Current Tax Expensive.

In an affidavit filed in Federal court Tuesday, C. L. Paullin, vice president of the Central Power company and manager of the company at Nebraska City, declared that the NRA and the three per cent federal energy tax were costing his company about $6,359.46 a year. Paullin holds that his company cannot operate efficiently under the ordinance rates set last year by the Nebraska City council.

An injunction was obtained to prevent the council from enforcing the rates but the difference between the charged rate and the ordinance rate is held in escrow by the court here. The company Monday asked return of this money, about $13,000 in five months. In his affidavit Mr. Paullin said the NRA would increase his costs about $4,278 in a year and that the three per cent federal energy tax shifted from the consumer to the company would cost them about $2,081.46 in a year.

He sought to show that with these additional expenses the company could not operate efficiently under the rates fixed by the ordinance. They seek a hearing January 31.

Stock Market Prices Display Reactionary Tendency As Speculators Cash In Profits

Exchange Closing Tone Is Irregular

Trading Wearies a Bit; Some Specialties Buck Trend, However.

NEW YORK Jan. 31—(AP)—

The stock market wearied a bit today after its exceptional activity of yesterday and prices generally displayed a reactionary tendency as speculators cashed in profits. Some specialties bucked the trend, however, and professionals were reported busy in several issues. The close was rather heavy. Transfers approximated 3,000,000 shares.

The lively antics of yesterday's boom time stock market gave way today to cautious contemplation which found profit taking quite popular.

The fast-moving equities of the previous session showed resistance to the cashing-in process during the early hours, but some of these turned a little heavier later. At the same time, the volume of transactions dwindled appreciably on the declines.

Bonds were also subjected to moderate realizing. The dollar was firm in relation to sterling notwithstanding indications of further American gold purchases in London. Wheat lost about a cent a bushel. Cotton was barely steady and other commodities a trifle hesitant.

Some of the utility and alcohol shares held small gains and Union Pacific and Douglas Aircraft got up about a point each. U. S. Steel on the other hand was off a dime or more, as was Bethlehem, while Allied Chemical, Case, U. S. Smelting and Delaware & Hudson lost 2 or more each. Mos tof the motors were only mildly lower, and American Telephone gave but little ground. The rails were a bit easier, as were the tobaccos.

Several of the more active professionals showed a disposition to step aside until more developments in the gold program are announced. There were many conjecture in the financial district as to just how soon the president would make known his first dollar devaluation figure.

Several stock exchange members expressed surprise at word from Washington that the president, after all, would ask for legislation at this session of congress for the federal regulation of speculation. It had been understood in some quarters that a control bill probably would be put over until next year with the exchange governors, in the meantime, adopting more stringent restrictions relating to margins, pools and specialists.

In line with the existing comparatively heavy margins required of traders, commission firms said that much of the buying of both stocks and bonds recently has been outright. Odd-lot purchases, it was said have also played a more important part than usual in the recent business aggregates.

There was little change in the industrial picture. Electric power output for the past week dipped slightly under that of the previous like period but the rate of increase over the corresponding week last year held about even with that of the week ended January 20.

In addition to wondering when and what dollar devaluation would be announced, following signing of the administration's gold bill, Wall street was closely following 1933 earnings reports of the more important corporations which are now making their appearance in large numbers.

Some industrial observers were inclined to place a favorable interpretation on U. S. Steel's income statement which showed that, despite a relatively poor fourth quarter, the corporation has tyear about halved its 1932 deficit, its net loss being figured at $36,519,000, after all charges but before dividends, against $71,175,704 in the previous twelve months.

Some encouragement was found in Chairman Myron C. Taylor's cautious prediction that the increased output of raw steel in 1933 should be maintained in 1934 and "possibly substantially bettered."

Net earnings of E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co of $35,895,330 as compared with $26,234,778 in the previous period, were seen as a further indication of the recovery momentum.

Confirmation of business improvement was also read in the report of "Iron Age" of a three-point rise in the nation-wide steel production average to 35 per cent of capacity, the highest rate of the year to date.

Followers of the rails were imbued with renewed hope by word that Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC had suggested an amendment to the law under which the corporation was formed permitting it to make loans of a maturity up to 10 years to railroads and possibly some other borrowers. The chairman told the senate banking and currency committee that the carriers would have to meet some $400,000,000 in maturities in the next several months.

Narrow price changes wer erecorded by leading foreign exchanges in opening dealings. The British pound eased ½ cent at $4.99 and the French franc, at 6.29 cents, was up a minor fraction.

Omaha Produce.

OMAHA, Jan. 31—(AP)—

The tone of the egg market today was weak and some local houses bid somewhat lower for fresh eggs from the country. Receipts are increasing rapidly and prices are expected to work lower to a storage basis. Poultry and butterfat were generally unrevised in price, with butterfat holding firm at quoted prices. Creamery butter continued to advance.

POULTRY—No. 1 poultry delivered in Omaha: Native springs, 8@9c per lb.; stags, 5@7: capons, 9 pounds and over, 13@14c; under 9 pounds, 7@10c: leghorn springs, 6@7c; old roosters, 5@6c; native hens, 8@9c; light hens, 7½c; Leghorn chickens, 6@7c; Leghorn hens, 7c; ducks, young, white, full feathered, 7@8c; geese, 5@6c; turkeys, basis, 12@13c per pound for young toms. Small premiums paid for extra choice poultry.

EGGS—Fresh eggs, delivered in Omaha, basis, 55 lbs., $4 50@65 per case in used cases, 25c less; loose eggs, that is, without cases, mostly ½c per dozen less. Buyers pay a fair premium for specials, commonly known as hennery eggs, strictly fresh, large and uniform in size and color.

BUTTERFAT—No. 1 cream, delivered at receiping doors in Omaha 19c; at country stations 15c; direct shipper price, track, 17c; No. 2 cream, 2c less.

BUTTER—Dairy, fresh fancy rolls, 12@13c; per pound; packing stock, 8@9c per pound. Creamery—Quotations to retailers; extras, 1-lb. cartons, solid 24½c; "best" butter, 1-lb. cartons, solid 23½c; ditto in 60-pound tubs, 23c; good butter, 1-lb. cartons, solid, 22½c; quarters ½c more; sweet butter, 2c more than salted.

FRESH MILK—Fresh milk testing, 3.5 per cent butterfat, delivered, 1.55 per hundredweight. This is the basic rate on which most large dairies contract for milk for bottle trade; variation to each point of butterfat. Milk over and above that needed for bottle trade, known as surplus milk and used for industrial purposes is bought at discount from the basic price.

GREEN VEGETABLES—Potatoes: Nebraska Ohios, $1.75 cwt.; triumphs, cobblers, $1.85; Minnesota cobblers, Ohios, $1.85@2 per cwt.; Colorado McClures, $2 per cwt.; Idaho russets, $2.25 cwt.; rurals, $2 per cwt.; Florida new potatoes, 50-pound bag, $2.25; sweet potatoes, $1.50@1.70 bushel basket. Cauliflower, $1.75 crate. Dry onions, white, $2.50 per 50-pound bag; yellow, $2; red, $2. New cabbage, $1.75 per sack. Tomatoes, $3.25 per lug; cucumbers, hothouse, $2 dozen. Celery, rough, $3.25 per crate, pascal celery, market. Special branded rutabagas, 50-pound bag, $1; California carrots, $3 crate; head lettuce, $3.50 crate; Brussel sprouts, 15 pound; other vegetables at market price.

Prices above are wholesale quotations on imported No. 1 stock, bearing United States department of agriculture certificate of grade.

Wheat Has a Sinking Spell

Close Is Unsettled, ⅝-1¼c Lower; Corn ¼-½c Down.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 31—(AP)—

Reactionary tendencies that developed in the wheat market today carried prices downward almost 2 cents a bushel but late rallies overcame part of the loss.

Mupch of the selling came from recent buyers, and was associated with indications that after four days' upturn of prices the peak of fthe wheat market had been passed for at least the time being. It was figured, however, that the international wheat price on a gold basis is yet 17 cents below the figure at which lower tariffs were to become effective in leading countries.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅝ to 1¼ cent under yesterday's finish May 91¾@⅞c, July 90⅝@½c. Corn ¼ to ½ cent down, May 52⅝c, July 54⅛@¼c. Oats ⅛ to ⅝ cent off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 5 cents decline.

Material downturns of wheat values early today resulted from lack of aggressive demand. Weakness of sterling, together with easiness of securities at New York, had some bearish influence. Opening at ⅜ to ⅞ cent decline, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn started ⅛ to ⅜ cent off, and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Wheat bears contended it would take growing weather to determine that crop damage of importance had been done to soft winter wheat by the recent cold wave. On the other hand, official reports said more or less damage to soft wheat was probable, and that deterioration of hard wheat in the western great plains continued, with the grain beyond recovery in places. Price rallies however, were unimpressive, and the market soon sagged about 1½ cents with July wheat going below 90 cents.

Recent over bought market position to four days straight quotations was regarded by some observers as largely responsible for today's downturns of wheat values. Commission house sales increased, and resting orders to purchase at declines were quickly filled. There was also some pressure to sell on the part of the larger local speculators. Corn and oats gave way with wheat, despite Argentine reports of corn crop damage and of urgent need of rain.

Provisions went olwer, responsive to sharp setbacks of hog values.

About mid-session, wheat was 1⅛ to 1¼ cents under yesterday's finish, and corn was ⅝ to ¾ cent down.

Corn receipts in Chicago today totaled 62 cars, a week ago 77, and a year ago 100.

Corn and other grains eased on scattered selling. Country offerings of corn to arrive were small, and shipping demand fair. Buenos Aires province and to somewhat tionally owing to scattered showers in Buenos Aires province and t osomewhat lower temperatures following one of the hottest days of the present century.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK Jan. 31—(AP)—

While the bond market had an evenly steady tone during the early trading today, secondary issues lacked the buoyancy and broad trading interest which characterized them yesterday.

Certain loans which pushed forward easily in the earlier buying movement appeared to meet considerable realizing and the evidence of such selling tended to limit the activities of buyers.

High grade ratings were firm in quiet trading. U. S. governments had further small gains, running from 4-32nds to 8-32nds of a point in the treasury group.

Fractional movement in values occurred over a fairly wide list of low priced loans, including some obligations of the Allegheny corporation, Chicago & Northwestern, Milwaukee, Southern Railway, Chile Copper, Lautaro Nitrate and Utility Power & Light.

Utilities were slightly irregular because of reactionary tendencies in some of the communications issues. Power and light classifications were gainers in many cases. Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, a strong feature in recent sessions, gained a major fraction. Detroit Edison 4½s improved a little on a fair turnover. International Telephone convertibles yielded a point and Postal Telegraph 5s slipped off half a cent.

In the foreign group prices shifted narrowly under small trading. Australian 5s, German 5½s, Brazil 6½s and Japanese issues were up from fractions to around a point.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK Jan. 31—(AP)—

The curb had a quieter market today and there was a bit of irregularity in the price changes.

Industrials slowed their pace as traders took profits in some of the recent favorites. American Cyanamid "B," Aluminum of America Parker Rust Proof, Sherwin Williams, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Waco Aircraft, Cord Corp., Natomas and Lake Shore Mines traded rather quietly, with moderate declines fairly numerous.

Utility leaders picked up in volume but failed to make much progress. Electric Bond & Share, American Gas, American Superpower and Niagara Hudson displayed considerable activity. Although their quotations were little changed.

Liquor shares sagged. Hiram Walker having an extreme reaction of more than a point. Oils also eased, mostly to the extent of minor fractions. Mining issues were mixed and quiet.

A few specialties moved away from the general list. J. J. Newberry had an early gain of 3 points, while Pepperell manufacturing crossed 100 on its first appearance of the day. Great Atlantic & Pacific also advanced.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Another advance in the wheat market yesterday was said by traders to have been the result of an increase in public interest and dust storms and drouth in the southwest. It was the fourth consecutive day of higher prices.

Traders still were apprehensive over damage to the new winter wheat crop despite moderation of the cold weather in the growing area. Crop conditions in Missouri were said to be lower than in 1928 as the result of increased damage from drouth and the sudden cold wave.

The trade centered some of its attention on an unusual spread between May wheat in Chicago and the same delivery in Buenos Aires. Belief was expressed that any material increase in American prices might cause Argentine grain to be offered at Atlantic coast ports or at the gulf.

A fair trade was reported in corn futures yesterday. Country offerings were larger, purchases totaling 42,000 bushels. The early buying of some futures was attributed to foreign account.

DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Directors of the United States Steel corporation declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the preferred stock. A similar amount was paid in each quarter since January last year when the rate was reduced from $1.75 quarterly.

The corporation reported total earnings of $5,537,084 for the final quarter of 1933 after ordinary operating expenses, compared with $11,816,832 for the third quarter and deficit of $3,828,272 for the December quarter in 1932.

After interest, depreciation, depletion, overhead expenses on iron ore, etc., deficit for the quarter was $7,945,445 compared with deficits of $2,717,014 in the September quarter and $16,723,368 in the December quarter in 1932.

After provision for the preferred dividend the total deduction for surplus for the December quarter was $9,746,850 compared with $4,518,419 for the three months ended September 30 and $18,530,773 for the final quarter of 1932.

The dividend on the preferred shares is payable February 27 to stock of record February 2.

Directors of the U. S. Playing Card Co. declared the regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share payable April 2 to stock of record March 12.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Proposals for a capital writedown will be voted on by Baldwin locomotive works stockholders at the annual meeting March 1. The plan calls for a reduction in stated capital to $30,548,000 from $42,134,000. Of the new capital figure, $20,000,000 is to be allocated to the preferred stock and $10,548,000 to the common. The balance will be used in effecting certain adjustments in value of property, plant and investments.

Stocks of lead in the United States on Jan. 1 totaled 295,704 short tons against 284,625 on Dec. 1 and 263,296 on Jan. 1, 1933. The American bureau of metal statistics reports. World production in December was 134,328 tons compared with 132,880 in November and 105,214 in December, 1932.

United States and Foreign Securities corp., an investment trust, reports net assets of approximately $26,028,000 at Dec. 31 compared with $23,300,000 on Dec. 31, 1932. The indicated asset value for the first preferred stock was approximately $122 a share against 109 a share at the close of 1932.

Universal Pipe & Radiator Co. announced that interest on its 6 per cent debenture bonds of 1936, which was due Dec. 1, was being paid today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Omaha, was reported still critically ill today, but resting comfortably. His physician said there was no change in his condition and there was hope for his improvement. The former senator's daughter, Mrs. Henry Doorly of Omaha, arrived today and will remain at the Hitchcock home here temporarily.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Sam Taran, wanted by Nebraska to face charges in connection with a Fairbury bank robbery, today won another continuance—this time until February 20.

The Cook county attorney's office had predicted today's continuance last week and so informed County Attorney Denney of Fairbury of the probable continuance on the habeas corpus action which had been set for today.

Troops Called Out In Kansas to Aid Hunt for Robbers

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., Jan. 31—(AP)—Four masked men robbed the Independence State bank of between $10,000 and $11,000 at opening time here today and kidnaped five employes of the bank in making their escape. The employes were released two miles north of here.

National guardsmen were called out at Iola and Coffeyville to patrol roads in search of the bandits.

The robbers abandoned their automobile on a country road about six miles north of Independence. Officers believed the quartet changed to another car.

An airplane was sent out to hunt for the fugitives.

Nebraska Officers On Lookout.

Nebraska airports were asked by Acting State Sheriff Fred Benton to aid in the search for the Independence bank robbers, on the theory that they may have transferred to an airplane in their escape.

Benton said he was advised by Kansas authorities that the bandits' automobile was found abandoned six miles northeast of Independence and a plane reported seen flying low over the area where the car was discovered, led to the belief that the robbers may have taken to the air.

Benton also notified Nebraska sheriffs to be on the lookout for the holdups, to cut off if possible any attempt to flee into this state by automobile.

5,000 FIGHTING PLANES SOUGHT

Efforts to Expand American Forces Seen in House and Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—A horde of more than 5,000 army and navy fighting planes would be ordered for the two services under plans afoot on Capitol hill today as a preparedness cry rang in congress.

Efforts aimed at expanding America's fighting forces were seen on both the house and senate sides.

Chairman Trammell of the senate naval committee said he would submit today a favorable report on a navy bill similar to the Vinson big navy measure passed yesterday by the house.

102 New Warships.

The bill, virtually assured of senate approval, would give the navy 102 new warships and around 1,180 new airplanes by 1939.

Chairman McSwain of the house military committee said he would introduce in the next day or so a bill to give the army air corps a five-year expansion program, increasing its planes up to 3,000.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, indicated senate debate on the Trammell-Vinson bill would begin tomorrow. Both democratic and republican spokesmen declared there were sufficient votes to assure approval.

Foes Prepare for Fight.

Considerable senate debate appeared probable before a final ballot, however, as big navy opponents prepared to make a fight.

Comparatively unnoticed as the Vinson bill swept through the house was an amendment backed by a "take the profit out of war" group.

Proposed by Representative Tobey, republican, New Hampshire, it would limit to 10 per cent the net profit of contractors assigned the building of naval vessels or airplanes. The net profit would be figured against the amount of the total contract assigned.

The house without even a record vote approved a full treaty navy of 240 ships by 1939, augmented by the greatest air force in the history of the service. Naval officials estimated the cost at $570,000,000.

Uncle Sam's Cash Balance Jumps to Billion and Half

$1,871,000,000 Deficit Expected to Reach 7 Billions by July.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The government's ready cash balance jumped to a billion and a half today as last week's billion dollar borrowing was listed on the treasury's dairy accounting sheet.

The exact figure of cash on hand was $1,489,063,226. The recent billion dollar short term securities issues contributed two-thirds of this figure.

Tremendous prospective expenditures are expected to push today's deficit of $1,871,308,000 to more than $7,000,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year and has necessitated keeping a large supply of cash on hand.

Government spending, including both routine and emergency was nearly at the billion dollar a month mark. In the first 29 days of January, the latest figures available, the expenditures stood at $921,175,000 for the month and of $3,543,046,000 for the year. This increased rate of spending put the deficit for the year at $1,871,308,000 as compared with $1,859,841,000 on the same date last year. This was the first time the 1934 fiscal year deficit exceeded the corresponding 1933 figure, without counting adjustments for sinking fund payments.

The public debt today stood at $24,968,929,000 as against $20,802,062,000 on the corresponding day last year.

Nevada Town Is Shaken by Quake

Buildings Damaged; Tremors Also Felt in California and Utah.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Children returned to school and stores reopened in Mina, Nev., today after an earthquake yesterday that damaged a dozen buildings and was felt in California and Utah.

Thirty shocks were felt in Mina, which is in a section of Nevada in which earthquakes have been reported frequently during the last 18 months. The major quake occurred at 11:24 a. m., and the others, of decreasing intensity, followed within an hour.

The shocks were reported in Salt Lake City, where tall buildings swayed, and in several cities of northern California, including Sacramento, Bakersfield, Modesto, Porterville and Fresno. No material damage was reported outside of Mina.

NO DEEP CUTS IN VALUATIONS ARE EXPECTED

Reassessment in State Faces Rising Land Market.

This year's revaluation of farm lands and other real estate in Nebraska for taxing purposes, decreed by the 1933 legislature to follow the special revaluation made last year, is not expected to bring about any further material lowering of valuations, for two reasons:

1. Because the present trend of land and lot values is upward, and an increasing volume of sales at advancing prices is taking place.

2. Because any attempt by taxing agencies to lower the assessed worth of real estate below the present depreciated level would give the railroad companies legal ground for renewing the old tax litigation which they conducted successfully against the state and its subdivisions several years ago.

Cannot Afford Litigation.

The state government and the local units could not afford at this time to have any of their revenue tied up by long-drawn-out suits, as was the condition when the railroads were resisting payment of their taxes in court. The money derived from carrier assessments is a sure source of tax income, so long as they pay willingly, while a large amount of taxes due on lands and other real estate is still delinquent.

One of the principal subjects to be taken up at the forthcoming state meeting of county assessors in Grand Island, the first week in March, will be the basis of this year's real estate assessment. Some county officials, under pressure of their local taxpayers, are talking about another reduction on top of the substantial cuts made in 1932 and 1933; but with the situation as it is there is not believed to be much probability of such action.

From a legal point of view, it is believed the state and counties could not successfully defend suits brought by railroad companies to have their own taxes lowered, if real estate should be decreased again in the face of advancing market values.

No Higher Rail Taxes.

The railroads themselves are not likely to come in for any tax boost, regardless of what may be done about lands, lots and buildings. Although their stocks and bonds, which constitute the principal factor in their valuations, are selling at much higher prices now than on April 1, 1933, the assessment date a year ago, they will not have to pay on this enhancement of values, since they are taxed on a four-year average basis.

In 1933, the four-year rule worked to the advantage of the state and its subdivisions by preventing a big slump in railroad assessments when stock and bond prices were scraping bottom. The higher values of 1930, 1931, and 1932 held up the average.

Now the rule works just the opposite way and helps the railroads to avoid a doubling or trebling of their taxes. The only change will be to drop the 1930 figures and include those of April 1, 1934, instead. As railroad securities are still below their prices of four years ago, this change will mean no raise in the average.

MANUFACTURERS IN MERRY MOOD

Say New Deal Helps Business All Along The Line.

OMAHA, Jan. 31—(AP)—Nebraska manufacturers appeared in a merrier mood than they were a year ago, or during conferences last summer, when they convened here today for their twenty-first annual convention.

For increases in business, reported pretty generally all along the line, the manufacturers of this state give credit to "the new deal" and other policies of the president.

Clyde Dempster of Beatrice, a member of the state executive committee, reported considerable improvement in the demand for agricultural implements in his territory.

A. J. Denman of Grand Island, state president, official of a beet sugar company, was more optimistic about conditions in his industry.

New deal activities are the theme of the convention, which opened following a luncheon today. James E. Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star and member of the Nebraska public works advisory board, discussed the PWA program in this state. He was to be followed by Prof. Karl Arndt of the University of Nebraska economics department.

Much Talk, Little Done
Cancer Research
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Mr. Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury, apparently agreeing with Carlye that "the more men talk, the more likely they are to do nothing else," tells Washington correspondents frankly that he does not mean to take them into his confidence concerning the president's plans for currency "stabilization," any discussions with Great Britain on that subject, etc.

The country gathers in a vague way that this country has set up a "stabilization fund" of two thousand million dollars which will be used to buy or sell currency, according as our national wisdom may dictate to put our dollar up or down, or keep it steady, as we choose. Half a dozen experts will be consulted, but not one will know whose advice has been taken only the president and Mr. Morgenthau will know. Apparently, there will be discussions with Great Britain, and an agreement if possible, for a currency war with Great Britain, says Mr Morgenthau, would be expensive for both countries.

Berlin yesterday celebrated the first anniversary of Hitler's rise to power. His appearance, and that of other dictators, are among the results of war, turning back the clock of progress. The natural course was from tyranny to monarchy, from monarchy to a republic. War turns back to the days of tyrants.

All these newly-made absolute rulers, Mussolini Kemal Pasha, Stalin, Hitler, have been remarkably stable, and have had overwhelming support from the people ruled by them. The final story is to be written later.

It is announced that four recent discoveries in cancer research have meant more in fighting the disease than all other discoveries from the beginning of time. Most interesting is the fact that a rat free from cancer when a cancer is planted in its body, immediately develops an "anti-body" that attacks the cancer and often destroys it.

This home-made cure for cancer, within the rat's own body, can be taken, attached to a cancer implanted and removed and used to combat cancer in other rats.

No experiments have been made with human beings as yet. Once the cancer is firmly established in the rat's body, however the creature's system seems to give up the struggle, and no further "anti-body cure" is developed.

Discuss Role of Y. W. In Recovery Program

Margaret Williamson Talks With Local Staff Members About Government Projects.

The part the Y. W. C. A. is taking in the national recovery program was discussed informally by Miss Margaret Williamson, and staff members of the local organization at Wednesday noon luncheon. Problems of concern to the Y. W. C. A. in it's government project work were brought out in questions by staff members.

At 4 o'clock Wednesday Miss Williamson addressed the K. E. Y. club on "Girls of the United States." Tea at four was served for the honor guest and for special guests, mid-year graduates of the local high schools and business colleges. A song number was given by Miss Barbara June Robbins. Miss Irene Jensen announced the program, and Miss Arlene Whitmer and her committee served tea.

An evening session for a combined assembly of business girls of the Y. W. C. A., and for the Girl Reserve department, will hear Miss Williamson discuss problems of that group.

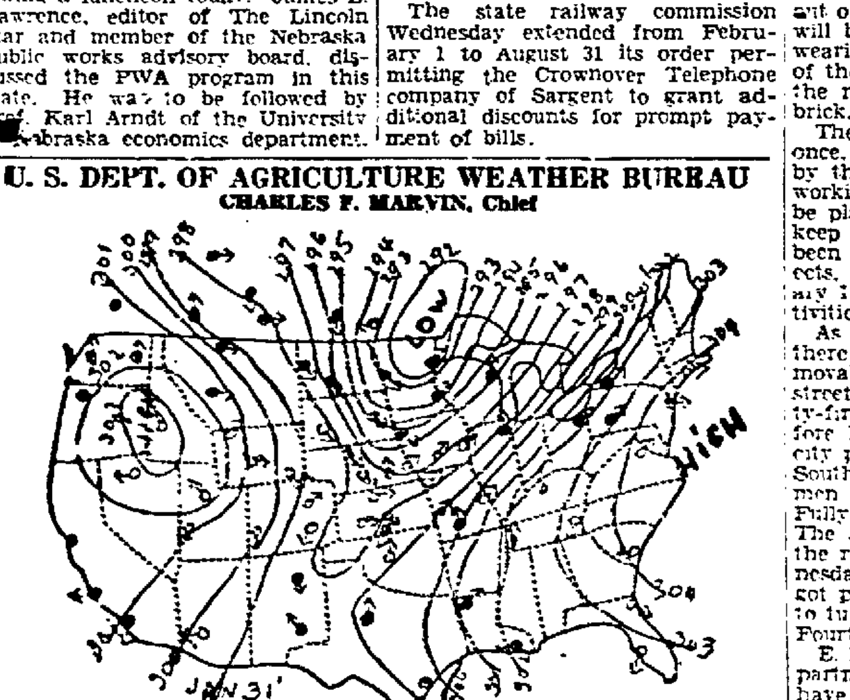

Organization clubs will be represented by the following: Miss Viola Selko, Sun Dial; Miss Ruth Cone, Tin Cups; Miss Olga Novacek, Cleophas; Miss Barbara June Robbins, K. E. Y.; Miss Evelyn Voigt, Jolly Janes; and Miss Rose Cusimano, Blue Triangle. Miss Mary Belle Fogg is business girls secretary. Discussion will be held roundtable fashion.

Thursday's program will begin with a board meeting.

WINSIDE DRIVER BADLY INJURED

Truck Struck By Train and Saunders May Not Live.

WINSIDE, Neb., Jan. 31 — Guy Sanders, Winside, was critically injured yesterday afternoon when his truck was hit by an M. and O. train as it was pulling into the station here. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Sanders is believed to have been watching a freight train on a siding and did not see the approaching passenger train. The truck was knocked off the tracks and Sanders was pinned between his machine and a small building.

His chest was badly crushed and he received internal injuries. He was placed on the train and taken to a hospital at Wayne.

Sanders is married and the father of five children.

Million And Half Expected From Parties

Nationwide "Roosevelt Ball" Is Social, Financial Success.

(Copyright 1934, by the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Figures from 41 states and the District of Columbia showed today that the nation's "birthday party" to President Roosevelt and to the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation for sufferers from infantile paralysis was a social and financial success.

No effort was made by headquarters here to bring in reports from the tens of thousands of cities and villages where balls and parties were held last night, but the Associated Press, through its bureaus in every state, gathered available figures which indicate that the total receipts will probably reach $1,500,000, and maybe more.

The first figures available which were incomplete and in most cases unofficially estimated, showed 737,067 persons contributed a total of $839,568 at the several hundred celebrations reported.

10,000 At One Party.

Philadelphia, with more than 10,000 at one ball, topped the list for that form of entertainment in first reports. At Birmingham, Ala., 8,000 participated in a parade.

Throughout the president's home state couples danced and played cards, 52 communities outside of New York City reporting attendance 51,585 with receipts of $43,218. Forty major parties in New York City attracted an estimated 30,000 persons.

Gifts swelled the totals in some cities and in Washington eleven tables at one hotel went for $1,000 each to boost the capital's contribution. Inasmuch as only two hotels had reported there the city's total was expected to be swelled considerably in a final accounting.

The six New England states reported 96 celebrations attended by 90,200 persons. Estimated contributions were $67,300.

Texas, home state of Vice President Garner, estimated a turnout of approximately 66,000 with receipts estimated at $65,000.

Will Remove Rails From Two Streets

CWA Project Calls For Such Work On North Fourteenth and On P Street.

The removal of the O. L. & B. car tracks from Fourteenth street from O to W, and P street from Twelfth to Fourteenth street, was approved as a CWA project Wednesday by the county CWA committee, Chairman Clarence Clark announced. It also has been approved by Herman Jobst, county director, and sent to Marshall Jones, for final appproval by the state.

The project will cost approximately $11,850, of which $8,350 will be for labor. The balance will be furnished in brick, sand, gravel, cement and asphalt filler by the O. L. & B., arrangement to that end having been completed Tuesday by City Engineer Erickson, with George Abel, president of the company.

In addition to taking the rails out of P street, a new concrete base will be laid along with an asphalt wearing surface to match the rest of the street. In Fourteenth street the new base will be covered with brick, and an asphalt filled used.

The project can be opened at once, Mr. Erickson said, if approved by the state. Two shifts of 150 working 24 hours weekly each will be placed on the job. This will keep virtually every man who has been on other rail removal projects, employed until about February 15, the time limit on CWA activities.

As this project was approved there was only one other rail removal operation under way. A street from Seventeenth to Twenty-first will not be completed before Friday. The only other CWA city project is the sewer from N to South street, on which fully 100 men were employed Wednesday. Fully 750 feet has been completed. The second stage of going under the railroads was undertaken Wednesday morning when the engineers got permission from the Burlington to tunnel under five sets of rails at Fourth and K streets.

E. M. Bair, head of the street department, announced that fires have been started under the asphalt pot of the paving repair plant, and as soon as the materials are ready, finishing the "cutbacks" at a large number of intersections will be started.

3-POINT RISE IN STEEL PRODUCTION

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—A three-point rise in the "Iron Age" steel production average to 35 per cent of capacity, the highest rate of the year, was reported by the publication today.

The review also said that a large automobile manufacturer was reported to have "sharply reduced tonnages alloted to leading steel companies and to have spread out its orders among a large number of small mills" because of dissatisfaction with the steel code, "particularly with provisions barring preferential prices on large purchases."

UNITED STATES DANCES TO HELP CRIPPLED YOUTH

though their legs are manacled by the cruel cuff of infantile paralysis which the national birthday party proposed to alleviate. They did not dance with the elegance of the swells, with the abandon of the negroes or the violent energy of the men and women of the wide open spaces. Theirs was an old-fashioned square dance, and they "danced" in wheel chairs.

It was for these victims of infantile paralysis, and for additional hundreds similarly unfortunately who now may have a chance at the benefits afforded at Warm Springs that President Roosevelt was happiest.

Of course, a quarter of a million telegrams, postcards and letters of greeting that flooded the White house warmed his heart; and there were great cakes and gifts too. The voice over the telephone of his 79-year-old mother in New York saying "Happy birthday, Franklin," was another moment to make the day overflow with happiness; and the little party last night at the White house with his "buddies of 1920" as special guests brought him joy.

Expresses Gratitude.

But when he spoke to "my friends," the American people, over the air last night, it was with expressions of gratitude for the gesture to him, but more than all it was gratitude for the substantial gesture of gold that will enable the realization of a long dream for the endowment of Warm Springs as a place where children and adults who, like himself, have been struck down by infantile paralysis, may find relief and help.

"It is with a humble and thankful heart," he said, "that I accept this tribute through me to the stricken ones of our great national family."

The balls themselves were by turn swanky and informal. There were in New York City 40 major parties with leading hotels providing the setting. Mrs. James Roosevelt, the president's mother, was guest of honor at the Waldorf-Astoria where 5,000 persons crowded the ballroom floor. The Astor ball drew 2,000, and at the Roosevelt, named in honor of another president, there were 700 gathered at a ball at which wine and liquor makers toasted the president in water. The toast was their salute to the president. The water was to symbolize their belief in temperance.

The world, some people said today, never saw such a birthday party honoring a living man.

High Spots of Address.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Here are high spots in President Roosevelt's address to the nation on the night of his 52nd birthday:

"It is with an humble and thankful heart that I accept this tribute through me to the stricken ones of our great national family."

"No man has ever had a finer birthday remembrance from his friends and fellows than you have given me tonight."

"I send you my greetings and my heartfelt thanks; but at the same time I feel that I have the right to speak to you even more as the representative on this occasion of the hundreds of thousands of crippled children in our country."

"It is only in recent years that we have come to realize the true significance of the problem of our crippled children."

"As all of you know the work at Warm Springs has been close to my heart, because of the many hundreds of cases of infantile paralysis which have been treated there."

"Warm Springs, through the generous gifts which are being made to the foundation tonight, will be able to increase its usefulness nationally x x x the facilities are available, insofar as beds and funds permit, to the rich and to the poor."

Child and Widow Both Entitled to Allowance From Estate, Says Judge

A probate court may not grant a widow's allowance to the exclusion of a dependent minor child while an estate is being settled, District Judge Shepherd holds in a decree filed in district court Wednesday.

The order was entered in a case in which Ralph Weber, 16, appealed from a ruling by County Judge Reid. The county court allowed a request for the allowance from the estate of $75 monthly for a year to Lydia G. Weber, widow of Henry Weber, but refused an application for a $50 monthly allowance to Ralph, son of Henry Weber and stepson of Lydia G. Weber.

Judge Shepherd orders that the county court's allowance be modified to give the widow $50 and the boy $25 monthly for a year. The decree states: "Discretion of the county court in granting such allowance goes only to the end of deciding that an allowance should be made and not to deciding that it may be made to the widow to the exclusion of the child."

DAVID JACK, 94, A PIONEER MERCHANT AT PERU IS DEAD

OMAHA, Jan. 31—(AP)—David Jack, 94, of Peru, Neb., who last summer took his first airplane ride, died Monday night at a local hospital. Across a span of 67 years, he and Mrs. Jack had shared adventures ranging from their first long trip by ox team to their plane trip to Chicago.

Jack, a Civil war veteran, was a pioneer merchant at Peru. Besides his wife, who is 90, Jack is survived by two sons and one daughter. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at Peru.

Illinois Kidnapers Given Life Terms

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Rejecting their pleas for new trial or delays, Judge Thomas J. Lynch today sentenced Gail Swolley of Peoria and Frank B. Souder of Benton to life imprisonment for kidnaping James Hackett, Blue Island gambler.

The two men were convicted ten days ago of the $1,500 ransom plot of last May against the wealthy suburban gambler, who once before had been kidnaped—allegedly by the same band.

Robbers Get $5,000 In Iowa Courthouse Raid

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ia., Jan. 31—(AP)—Robbers who broke into the Henry county treasurer's office sometime last night broke open the safe and escaped with $5,000 in cash received in automobile license sales Tuesday.

The county carries $3,000 insurance against robbery.

Columbus Project Is Willing Have Federal Control Power Rates

The Columbus power project is not opposed to the federal power commission fixing maximum rates for the district, Harold Kramer, secretary of the district, said here Wednesday.

The district, according to Kramer, is willing that the federal body establish rates as proposed by Governor Bryan. Kramer said the state has made no provision for regulating and fixing power rates for such districts and therefore the federal power commission should assume the burden.

JUDGMENT APPEALED.

The Farmers Mutual Home Insurance company of Hooper Wednesday appealed to the Supreme court from a $2,500 judgment obtained by Anna Leisy in Cuming county District in a suit on a fire insurance policy.

Classic Or Ape, What's Your Type?

Barclay, Famous Artist, Says Measure Your Head to Know.

WELL, here's another little something to do to while away the time — head measuring—the idea being to discover whether you are of the classic type or the ape type. According to McClelland Barclay, noted magazine illustrator and authority on beauty, the human body — male or female — should be eight times the length of the head. "If a human being is more than eight times the length of his or her head," says Mr. Barclay, "then the figure tends towards classicism. If the body is less than eight times the length of the head—it is ape-like." There you are, and your quarrel will be with Mr. Barclay.

AND WHO DO YOU think was in town today for about ten minutes? None other than Margaret Sullavan of "Only Yesterday" fame, in which she co-starred with John Boles. We might add that Miss Sullavan had a black eye but refused to discuss it, and that she also refused to affirm or deny the rumor of her approaching marriage — in fact, she refused to talk about most anything.

She is very slight, according to the reporter who went to interview her, was dressed in a three-piece tweed suit, and appears to be about thirty years of age. The last, of course, is only a man's guess, and may be off from five to ten years.

January Tulips

Lincoln's weather holds no terror for Mrs. M. Seidnan's tulips. Mrs. Seidnan, who lives at 2826 Vine street reported that five or six of her tulips had come up through the straw protecting the bed. "They aren't in bloom yet but they will be in a few days," she said. The bed is located in the front yard, and Mrs. Seidnan who is a flower fancier says she never saw tulips growing in January—at least, not in Nebraska.

Nearly 2,000 Honor President, Aid Foundation At Lincoln Ball

It was a kaleidoscopic throng that poured into the university coliseum Tuesday night to make Lincoln's celebration of Franklin D. Roosevelt's fifty-second birthday one of the season's biggest social events. A crowd estimated at nearly 2,000 came early and stayed until the last dance was played. People from all walks and stages of life joined in paying tribute to the nation's leader and to do their bit for the Warm Springs infantile paralysis foundation, to which the proceeds went.

The ball opened officially with the grand march shortly after 9 o'clock, led by Gov. and Mrs. Charles W. Bryan and their military escort, Adjutant General H. J. Paul and Major H. C. Stein and their wives, followed by leading Lincoln citizens, city and state officials. The governor's invitation to everyone to join in the march was generally accepted and about 400 were in the line. There was a little hitch at the end when the orchestra suddenly swung into a dance tune, leaving the governor and the marchers "stranded" on the floor.

At 10:20, the floor was cleared and silence fell as everyone listened to the president's address, applauding vigorously at the end. Then came the salute to the president by the American Legion drum and bugle corps, the color guard of veterans of the Spanish American war and the university Pershing Rifles. The colors were presented as the bugles played a ruffle and the Pershing rifles came to "present arms."

At 11 o'clock the big cake given by the Smith baking company was auctioned off by Al Forke. A. Q. Schimmel was the high bidder at $22.50, and it was announced that the cake would be given to the orthopedic hospital.

Orchestras Play Alternately.

Eddie Jungbluth's and Leo Beck's orchestras, on opposite sides of the floor, played alternately and the music was amplified through two loudspeakers on each side.

Official check of the actual receipts cannot be made for a day or two by Harry R. Swanson in charge of the affair, but Trev Gillaspie and John E. Curtiss, who were in charge of the ticket sales at the door, stated Tuesday night that 542 tickets had been sold at the door alone. The total number would run somewhere around the thousand mark, they thought.

Celebration At Omaha.

At Omaha, 4,000 persons drawn from every rank jammed onto the Ak-Sar-Ben coliseum dance floor to join the nation in celebrating the birthday. The ball was opened officially with a grand march, headed by George Brandeis, chairman of the event, and Mrs. Paul Gallagher.

Governor Bryan and his party arrived at 11 p. m., and remained until the end. At midnight, 52 red haired Omaha school girls cut a huge birthday cake.

Other Nebraska towns which celebrated the day were Nebraska City, Beatrice, McCook, Grand Island, Hastings, Kearney, North Platte, Columbus, Alliance and Falls City.

NRA DIRECTORS HEAR JOHNSON

Real Code Compliance Necessary Says Recovery Drive Chief.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson told the newly chosen state directors for NRA and the emergency council today that successes of the recovery administration and the entire reovery program depended wholly on their ability to obtain real compliance with the codes.

In an extended explanation of what NRA has done and still has to do, Johnson told the men that the enforcement question was "the proof of the pudding."

Outlining the problems which they would face, he said one of the greatest was that involving company unions.

"There is no answer to the argument," he said, "that many companies created unions after passage of the industrial act to influence their men in their choice of instrumentality for collective bargaining.

"It is a counter NRA device in some small part at least and depending on its execution."

The directors for all the states, assembled for a four-day course of intensive study in preparation for their new duties, heard from Frank G. Walker, executive director of the emergeny council, that they would be primarily responsible to NRA.

The state representatives, he said, would be "vested with full authority" to supervise NRA compliance machinery in thier respective states and would be directly responsible to Johnson.

House Democrats Cheer Complaint Over Patronage

Blanton Asserts Republicans Given AAA, CWA and PWA Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—"Who's in charge of this spending?" Blanton of Texas demanded today in the house.

"I'm not criticising our president—I won't criticise any president—but he has seen fit to put a republican in charge of the AAA, and has filled every district in the United States with republicans.

"If there has been a democrat put in I don't know it. (Applause from the democratic seats).

"Who is in charge of the CWA? A democrat? Oh, no! Is Harry Hopkins a democrat? Oh, no! He has filled every part of the country with republicans. (More democratic applause).

"Who's in charge of the PWA? A democrat? Oh, no! Secretray Ickes has filled it up with republicans from one side of the country to the other."

Turning to the democratic members, Blanton asked if Ickes had named any democrats in their districts.

"Noes" echoed.

Allotments Made For Purchase of Materials On Seven CWA Projects

Additional allotments for purchase of materials to be used on approved CWA projects over the state have been made by the Nebraska administration as follows:

Cheyenne county, four projects, $604; Mitchell, federal experiment station, $16; Perkins county, improvements at Grainton, $20; Chase county, $12.60.

Federal Agent Haynes will return Thursday from his trip to Washington and will meet Friday with the state civil works and relief committee.

MAE MURRAY SAYS SHE IS BANKRUPT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(AP)—While her former husband, David Mdivani and his brother, Serge, prepared to present their defense against grand theft charges, Mae Murray declared herself bankrupt.

The film actress and divorced wife of David listed her liabilities in a federal court petition at $228,196 and estimated assets at $324,500, most of which was real estate.

POLICE CAR STOLEN.

Sheriff Stephens of Wayne Wednesday reported to Acting State Sheriff Fred Benton the theft Tuesday of an automobile and two revolvers belonging to the Wayne chief of police. The weapons were in the automobile.

More CWA Money For Fair Grounds Sought

Present Projects Are Nearly Completed; Reed to Ask $5,000 Additional.

With one project at the fair grounds to be completed in two or three days and another in about two weeks, Secretary Perry Reed of the fair board Wednesday was preparing to file application before the county CWA board for another $5,000 allotment from state civil works funds.

Reed said there is sufficient work available at the fair grounds to keep the present number of men at work there employed until late spring.

Among the improvements made possible by CWA funds, was raising the fair grounds race track, which had been worn down so that it did not drain quickly after a hard rain.

Reed also revealed that the fair board is negotiating with the Rock Island to acquire title to the right of way formerly occupied by the company's spur line through the fair grounds. The spur was abandoned some time ago and the tracks were removed by the railroad when the CWA crews started cleaning up the grounds.

NO LETTERS YET FROM KIDNAPERS

Welfare of Bremer, St. Paul Captive, Remains a Mystery.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 31—(AP)—Many letters—but none from the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, seized for $200,000 ransom two weeks ago — have been received at the home of the Bremer family.

Adolph Bremer, principal owner of the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Co. and father of the missing man, insisted today that of the scores of missives received daily, not one has been from the gang.

The welfare of the 37-year-old owner and president of the Commercial State bank still was a matter of conjecture. The family saw as the work of another crank a letter Mrs. S. S. Ritchie told San Francisco police she addressed for an unidentified man yesterday in that city.

Seek "Mysterious Foreigners"

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Police and federal authorities today sought a "mysterious foreigner" for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker.

Search for the man began here when Mrs. S. S. Ritchie reported that while she was writing a letter in a San Francisco hotel yesterday a man sitting next to her asked if she would mind addressing an envelope for him.

"I haven't had much schooling and I don't write very well," Mrs. Ritchie said he told her.

Then he dictated: "Adolph Bremer, St. Paul, Minn."

And added: "Just address it 'Care of the Bank'".

Adolph Bremer is Edward G. Bremer's father, who has been asked to meet ransom demands for his son.

The Bremer family in St. Paul expressed belief the letter would prove to be another of the many received from "cranks."

$1,000 Damage Verdict

The Lincoln Non-Stock Milk Producers association was awarded $1,000 damages for alleged breach of contract against Clive Bartholomew, by Municipal Judge J. L. Polk Wednesday. The co-operative claimed that Bartholomew had accepted milk pursuant to a contract with the association, but had refused to pay for it. Bartholomew filed a cross-petition asking $875 damages, but Judge Polk dismissed the cross-petition.

TREE BIDS WAIT BRYAN'S RETURN

Several Nursery Firms Enter Letting For Capitol Square.

Governor Bryan's tardy return from Omaha, where he went late Tuesday night to attend the Roosevelt birthday ball after taking part in the one given here at the university coliseum, delayed a meeting of the state capitol commission set for 10 a. m. Wednesday, while a group of nurserymen and other intending bidders on 161 trees for the landscaping of Capitol square waited around for him to arrive.

At noon the governor had not showed up at his office, and no definite word had been received there as to when he would arrive. The nurserymen went out to lunch, hoping to get a chance some time in the afternoon to have their proposals opened and considered by the capitol commission, of which Governor Bryan is chairman.

Several Nurseries Compete.

Concerns represented in the bidding list are:

Nebraska nurseries Lincoln and Harvey Williams Lincoln bidding jointly each taking certain sections of the list of trees called for in the specifications.

Olson Construction Co., Lincoln.
Sonderregger nurseries Beatrice
Marshall nurseries, Arlington
Byrd nurseries, Omaha
Cashman nurseries Minneapolis represented by H. C. Wittman, Lincoln

Besides the propositions put in by commercial tree growers and movers, several offers of individual trees have been received from Lincoln citizens.

Beckmanns Offer Cedars.

Alfred and Arthur Beckmann have two large and well-shaped cedar trees that they desire to have planted on Capitol square as a memorial to their father, the late Fred Beckmann, who served several terms as state land commissioner and had charge of the old capitol building and grounds during that time.

W. H. Green also has a good-sized ornamental cedar tree that he is willing to give the capitol commission.

The general list of trees is divided into several sections. Some of the commercial bidders are submitting proposals only on parts of the list.

The awards probably will be split up among different firms. Each successful bidder will provide its own labor in taking up trees, removing them to Capitol square, and resetting them under the direction of Ernst Herminghaus, supervising architect.
